123,033 Listed In Gr. Victoria

(See also Page 21)
Greater Victoria has had an 18 per cent rise in population since 1951.

Metropolitan area population now stands at 123,033 compared to 104,303 five years ago, according to Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures released at Ottawa today.

The census division, reporting on the Canada-wide nose-count conducted last spring, said Victoria city has 1,757 more people than in 1951, indicating the fastest increase in growth belongs to the other municipalities in the area. New city population is 53,088.

No breakdown of populations was given yet for Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt. It is thought the overall total would also include part of the adjoining provincial unorganized area.

Recently preliminary census figures gave Victoria 52,935, Saanich about 38,500 and Oak Bay 14,652. Other tentative figures were not available.

The 1951 census gave Victoria 51,331; Esquimalt 10,153; Oak Bay 11,960; Saanich 28,481; Central Saanich 2,069 and Indian reserves, 309.

COINCIDE
The bureau extended the metropolitan boundaries of Victoria for its own purposes, to take advantage of suburban out-thrusts and partly to have census boundaries coincide with municipal boundaries.

The trend of suburban growth outstripping the city was repeated at Vancouver, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Hamilton, Toronto and Windsor.

In the Vancouver area, New Westminster's population now is 31,357, compared to 28,639 in 1951; Burnaby municipal district 83,270 (58,376); Coquitlam municipal district 20,126 (15,697); Surrey municipal district 48,877 (33,670); West Vancouver municipal district 19,017 (13,990).

New Westminster gained 9.5 per cent; Burnaby 42.7 per cent, Coquitlam 21.8 per cent, Surrey 45.2 per cent and West Vancouver 36 per cent.

Tunnel Workers' Dicker Started

Negotiations are reported under way today between contractors and the striking Tunnel and Rockworkers Union that would end a lengthy strike on major construction projects in British Columbia. While pickets are still on at the Upper Campbell and Ladore hydro projects of the B.C. Power Commission, 535 of the 776 union men on the jobs, not members of the rockworkers' union, are back at work today after passing the pickets.

At Ladore, 260 of the 285-man complement are back on the job. The newly-formed independent union tied up about 2,000 workers in B.C. during the four-week strike. Projects affected by the strike include the $20,000,000 hydro development on Upper Campbell River; an $8,000,000 hydro development at Cheakamus, and the $2,640,000 project to remove Ripple Rock from Seymour Narrows. The rockworkers walked out after a split with the hod carriers over contracts signed by International Hod Carrier representatives for B.C. workers.

Chinese Told To Oust Reds

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Chew Swee Kee, Singapore's minister of education, today told the principals of Chinese high schools here to clear out the thousands of rebellious left-wing students now "squatted" on school grounds, or the government would take action.

About 4,000 Chinese students Wednesday night besieged the grounds of three Chinese high schools in protest against the Singapore government's expulsion of 145 students and two teachers for alleged Communist activities.

GOOD GRIEF! PEANUTS HAS MOVED TO PAGE 21

Few comics in recent years have so quickly won favor as the Times' "Peanuts."

Admiration for Charlie Brown, Linus, Lucy and the dog Snoopy has swept across North America, captivating the hearts of young and old alike.

Artist Charles Schulz recently won the acclaim of his fellow cartoonists with an award for creation of "Best comic strip of the year."

Accordingly, the Times is setting up Charlie Brown and his philosophical pals in a brand new home, all their own—on the front page of the second section. Watch for "Peanuts" in his new location every day! He's on Page 21 today.

Nelson Sentenced; Mother in Tears

(Special to the Times)

ALBERNI — William Harold Nelson, 18, one of four youths charged with causing an indignity to a dead human body, today was sentenced to two years less one day definite and two years less one day indeterminate.

He will serve his term in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla Prison Farm in Burnaby.

Two of his companions, Alma Doreen Lochner, 19, and David Windsor Ferguson, 19, are scheduled to appear in police court at Alberni Friday to face similar charges.

The third, Jean Gibson, 17-year-old waitress, was remanded Wednesday to appear in police court Oct. 18. She has been transferred from juvenile court to open court.

Pale and wearing a pink sweater, grey pants and suede shoes, Nelson pleaded guilty to the charge.

He received his sentence with apparent emotion. His parents were seated in the front row of the courtroom, close to the box. His mother wept quietly as the sentence was pronounced.

W. H. Nelson

'Just Prank to Attract Attention'

Earlier in the trial Ron MacIsaac, Nansimo, asked Magistrate Thomas Patterson for leniency in the sentence.

"This is not so much a crime as a prank," he said. "This kind of thing goes on among university students all the time and people call it the boisterousness of youth."

"This act was the act of a mind troubled with alcohol. It was just a prank to attract attention. All human beings at some time or another have to feel important to themselves and that is what this young boy was trying to do."

He maintained that the same case six months from now would be treated as a "prank of youth."

"Terrible punishment has already been visited upon this young man. He did something to attract attention and the prank backfired."

"He is now a leper in this community and any sentence will just be aftermath."

The dramatic incident, which took place in Greenwood Cemetery on the night of Sunday, Sept. 23, was outlined by Port Alberni lawyer Bob Oas, appearing for the Crown.

"An argument started between the boys and the two girls sitting with them in a parked car at Greenwood Cemetery over Elvis Presley," he said.

"It was after this argument that the boys left the vehicle and began their work of desecration. There was no indication of drunkenness. Several times during the night they travelled back and forth between town and the graveyard."

"After one of these trips they returned with a shovel and started to dig open the grave. They left the graveyard again. One of their girl companions went home and they picked up another to replace her and the four accused persons then returned to the cemetery again."

"They walked over to the top of the grave and dug down to the coffin. Nelson at this time had a logging chain with him which he had acquired on one of his trips to town."

"There was evidence of liquor, it is true, and there was certainly bravado but they knew what they were doing. Their intention was to deposit the casket at Third and Argyle (main intersection at Port Alberni), but as the corpse appeared over the top of the grave they became frightened and drove away."

"Liquor may have instilled them with bravado but they were sober enough to eat food, participate in physical exercise and drive a car."

Retest Reveals B.C. Gas Well To Be One of Top Oil Yields

The retesting of a three-year-old gas development well in the Fort St. John area by Pacific Petroleum Ltd. and associates ended with the discovery of one of British Columbia's best oil producers.

The well, Fort St. John No. 9, is B.C.'s fifth commercial oil producer from the Triassic zone. The find is making about 250 barrels a day flowing through a quarter-inch choke from 11 feet of sand 22.2.

Another well, Pacific Fort St. John No. 45, was reported making 35 to 45 barrels a day of 42.5

degree gravity oil from a 14-foot dolomite bed. Interest in this well is split 23 per cent each to Pacific, Peace River Natural Gas and Sunray Oil Corporation, 25 per cent to Permo Gas and Oil and six per cent to Canadian Atlantic.

Fort St. John Nos. 9 and 45 belong to Pacific Petroleum. Three others in the Boundary Lake area, 35 miles north and east of Fort St. John, are owned by Northern Foothills Agreement, a syndicate consisting of Shell, Texaco, Mobil Oil and British American.

CBC Ready to Quit TV Monopoly in Big Cities If Certain Conditions Met, Dunton Tells Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC board chairman A. D. Dunton said today he feels the time has come for abandonment of the government's single-channel television policy provided certain conditions are met.

He told the Royal Commission on Broadcasting one condition should be that in areas with two TV stations one should be a CBC station.

He indicated he thinks privately-owned stations at two-station points should meet certain requirements, including those of program standards and Canadian content in their broadcasting.

There should be sharing of the job carrying the CBC's national TV service, now carried by CBC and private TV stations. There would have to be co-operation between them.

Mr. Dunton's statement was the first clear declaration that the CBC thinks the government's single-channel policy, in effect since TV broadcasting began in Canada in 1952, should be changed.

He said second TV stations would be economically feasible in several centres. The CBC would like to see their development where they could be supported economically. He added he would expect the public system would have to supply some of their programs.

The federal government's policy now is to permit only one TV station in each viewing area, with six major cities reserved for the CBC alone.

In response to questions from commission chairman R. M. Fowler, Mr. Dunton said he would guess second stations now would be economically practicable in Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, possibly Regina and very likely some areas in southern Ontario. The possibilities in the Maritimes would have to be studied.

Mr. Dunton emphasized that the possibilities of second stations operating in such areas was a straight matter of income and expenditure, not taking into account such factors as higher costs of producing live Canadian programs as against imports.

"If the time has come to take the lid off the single channel policy," Mr. Fowler asked, "is it possible to put in by regulation that certain kinds of performances be required from second stations?"

"Something could be done by way of regulations," Mr. Dunton said.

FREAK ACCIDENT

Driverless Car Hit Victim Many Times

CHESTERVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The body of a 70-year-old hired man, Clarence Algire, was found on a farm near here Wednesday night, lying in a field where a driverless car was circling around backwards, colliding with him on each circuit. Nearby unconscious was William Servage, 62, owner of the farm where Algire worked. He suffered face lacerations, a crushed chest and a broken arm. He was taken to hospital, where he was said today to be in critical condition.

Neighbors Gerald Gibbons and Charles Flegg discovered the freak fatality, police said. The car, a 1948 model, had its throttle jammed open and gear locked in reverse.

The car was owned by Mr. Servage. Police spokesmen said there were no marks on the dead man to indicate he had been struck by anything but the car.

Small Cities Growth Equals Big Brothers

Canada's little cities are keeping pace with the big ones and even surpassing their rate of growth in many cases.

first commercial oil discovery in B.C. last year in the Boundary Lake area. Pacific Petroleum made the first oil strike at Fort St. John in November, 1935, but operations were later suspended.

Pacific Petroleum announced an oil discovery early this year at Fort St. John No. 45, and later while drilling for gas at the No. 9 well they discovered oil. No. 9 has been undergoing re-testing ever since.

"An oil well may turn into a gas well or a gas well into an oil well," the Pacific Petroleum spokesman said, "but oil is always our first consideration."

He stated that Pacific Petroleum has spent more than $300,000 on drilling for gas and oil in the Peace River area so far.

Next year drilling in north-eastern B.C. and northwest Alberta will be the biggest in history with 165 geophysical crews representing all major companies operating in this area.

"There is scarcely a major company in the world that is not now working up there," the spokesman said.

PROTEST HELD UP

Fort St. John No. 9 well was one of those mentioned a few weeks ago by Peter A. Schwerdt, former prospector and independent oil operator, when he challenged the B.C. Social Credit government to prove that it had not "mismanaged" the gas and oil development of the Peace River.

He offered to donate $100,000 to charity if the government and Pacific Petroleum could prove that all oil companies and oil operators had access to "sufficient information" on the lands underlying parcel 64; and all information on the adjacent lands, including PRA Fort St. John Nos. 7, 8, 9, and 32 to enable them to assess for oil and to bid intelligently for the oil in parcel 64.

"We are not interested in entering into any arguments of this nature," the spokesman for Pacific Petroleum said today. "Everyone had an opportunity to bid on this land when it was first offered."

ing example. Rate of growth there in the last five years has been 121 per cent.

The figures were obtained today by The Canadian Press from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics following compilation of figures taken last spring in the first five-year census in Canada's history.

Saskatoon increased its population by 33 per cent in the five years up to last June 1. Drummondville, Que., had a population gain of 84.2 per cent, Regina 24.5 per cent, and Fredericton 12.6 per cent.

NOT COMPLETE

Today's report was only a partial list of Canada's communities. The final tabulation is expected to show the country's population at or near the 16,000,000 mark, compared with 14,000,000 at the 1931 census.

Today's findings showed that while the big cities might add their tens of thousands of people, some of the smaller centres proportionately were doing as well or even better.

Poznan Sergt. Admits He Gave Arms to Rioters

POZNAN, Poland (Reuters) — A Polish police sergeant testified today that when armed rioters here stormed into his police post he and his men turned over their arms to them.

Sgt. Tadeusz Krasny, 30, said about 40 youths raided the post during the street fighting of June 28 in which 54 persons died. He said the raiders demanded guns and ammunition.

"Because I had no way to protect myself I took out my revolver and put it on the table," he said. "Other policemen did the same."

The judge announced that the court has agreed to a defence request to call extra witnesses.

The state meanwhile has appealed against the leniency of the sentences passed on three youths for slaying a security police officer during the riots.

Two were sentenced to 4½ years' imprisonment and a third to four years.

Another court will pronounce judgment Friday on eight more youths and a 35-year-old man.

Britain Drops First A-Bomb From Aircraft

Long Range Jet Scores Success

By TERENCE DOWNEY

MARALAINGA, Australia (Reuters) — A British jet bomber today swooped over this desert atomic testing ground and released Britain's first operation atomic bomb.

It exploded in the air with tons of TNT only seconds after the plane had screamed up and away.

A gigantic white-hot fireball sent a searing flash across the sunny desert, and then the familiar mushroom cloud soared into the air, though with its stem less pronounced than those produced at the two previous tests in the recent British series here.

The first of the tests in the series was from a steel tower, and the second at ground level.

Today's was the first British attempt to drop a free weapon and explode it in the air. The plane used was a Vickers' Valiant, one of Britain's newest four-jet long-distance planes.

Explosives Ship Sinks Near Alaska With Four Aboard

KODIAK, Alaska (AP) — The motor vessel Tuva, en route to Kodiak from Seattle, sank Wednesday in heavy seas 30 miles east of Cape St. Elias.

The fate of the four men aboard was unknown.

The Tuva, carrying 30 tons of explosives, was believed to have been swamped by high waters whipped up by winds which ranged from 40 to 60 miles an hour during the day.

Britons Bombed On Cyprus Road

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Two British soldiers were wounded early today when an electrically detonated bomb exploded in a tree as their army jeep passed beneath on a main road one mile from Paphos. A tracker dog was killed by the explosion.

Teacher's Lunge at Mad Gunman Paved Way for Freeing 96 Pupils

TERRAZZANO, Italy (Reuters) — A woman teacher, who once in the head and once in the neck, wrestled with one of two mad gunmen before police burst into a school to free 96 children held as hostages, was hailed today as the heroine of the tense barricading episode.

For six nightmare hours Wednesday, the men held everyone at bay, trussing up teachers and shouting threats to blind the children with acid and "blow the place to bits with explosives" unless given a sum of 200,000,000 lire (about $380,000).

Two armed policemen finally broke in, climbed to the top floor and challenged the gunmen, Arturo Sampato, and his brother, Osvaldo, 22.

Housing Society Will Bid On City's Harriet Rd. Land

Refused a city donation of property in September, Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society will bid on 2.37 acres on Harriet Road for an aged pensioners' housing project.

Society's earlier plan to approach Saanich council for free property has been abandoned, said William Hooson, society secretary.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The census bureau has estimated the population of the United States at about 168,638,000 on Sept. 1. This represents a rise of 17,506,000, or 11.6 per cent, since the 1950 census and an increase of 2,851,000, or 1.7 per cent, from a year ago.

Protests Fail; B.C. Folk To Pay More for Liquor

Liquor will soon cost more in B.C.
Attorney-General Robert Bonner admitted today the government has abandoned its fight against higher liquor prices because of industry-wide increases of between 15 and 16 per cent wholesale.

"We have to face the fact that distillers throughout Canada have found it necessary to increase their wholesale prices," he said. "The increase is no longer limited to a few firms." Previously the government had sought to block or delay the price hike by refusing to place new orders with Seagram's and Alberta Distillers—the first two companies to raise their prices.

All four western provinces protested the increases but the protest proved ineffectual when seven other distillers announced similar increases. And more are expected to follow.

Quits Morocco Post

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—Andre Dubois, first French ambassador to newly independent Morocco, has resigned, the French Embassy said Wednesday. Dubois was the last French resident-general in Morocco before its independence was recognized earlier this year. No reasons were made public for his resignation.

The B.C. cabinet now has to decide how much of the increase will be passed on to the public.

"The increase will not be immediate," Mr. Bonner said, "as there are moderate supplies of liquor on hand at the old price."

"It is possible there will be no increase for two or three weeks."

Canadian distillers blame the higher cost of labor and materials for the increase in their prices, and some say they expect decreased profits this year.

Col. Donald McGugan, chairman of the B.C. Liquor Board, today received notification of an increase in wholesale prices from W. and A. Gilbey Ltd. of New Toronto.

This brings the total firms raising prices to 10.

3-Nation Silence Shrouds Secret UN Talks on Suez

By ROD CURRIE

Canadian Press Staff Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The foreign ministers of Britain, France and Egypt are meeting again today to sift the tangle of plans and proposals for running the Suez Canal in search of at least a basis for further negotiation.

If they have made any progress in the private sessions in the office of United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld they refuse to say so.

Britain and France—despite rumors to the contrary—say they are still strongly united behind their demand for control of the waterway under an international body.

REJECT ALL IDEAS

Egypt, supported by Russia, has turned down all proposals which would not leave Egypt absolute control of the canal.

After Wednesday night's meeting in Hammarskjöld's heavily-guarded office on the top floor of the UN headquarters skyscraper, Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said the parties have been "developing questions and answers without any hard commitments from either side."

Earlier, Pineau and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd issued a communique saying they are "in complete agreement." The statement added: "Speculation in the press regarding Anglo-French differences is without foundation."

However, a British spokesman said later that Britain is flexible on the question of actual canal operation provided there is an international group to ensure free access to the canal to all ships.

CONTRARY TO MEETING

This is contrary to the decisions of the 18 nations at the London conference. Their plan—on which the Anglo-French resolution before the UN Security Council is based—proposed operation of the canal under an international body, provision of pilots, guarantee of use of the canal to all nations, and payment of a "just" fee to Egypt.

However, such a view would be more in line with that outlined Tuesday by U.S. State Secretary Dulles at the final open session of the Security Council.

He said the main objective was to safeguard the canal from the influences of national politics. If Egypt would allow this, Dulles said, other problems could be resolved.

But Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov said the Dulles idea was just a cover for internationalization of the waterway.

Loss-Leaders in Wheat

TRADE MINISTER HOWE HAS informed a press conference there is "some indication" that the United States will modify its policy regarding wheat sales. It is to be hoped that even the unsettled conditions of a presidential election campaign will not hamper a revision of this practice, for the policy threatens Canadian agriculture with serious repercussions.

It has been revealed only within the last few days that United States offers of large quantities of surplus wheat to overseas countries have been conditional upon the recipient undertaking to buy further supplies in future years.

The current arrangement now being negotiated with Brazil, for instance, stipulates that in return for 1,800,000 tons of surplus American wheat to be paid for in Brazilian currency (rather than in U.S. funds) the importer would pledge to purchase specified quantities of U.S. wheat over the next three years.

Similar arrangements are believed to have been made in regard to other U.S. sales and gifts of grain.

Such a system of deals is far from the spirit of international co-operation which Canada has been led to expect from the United States. No less is it a violation of the spirit of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade renewed recently at Geneva and designed to facilitate and encourage international trade.

It had been hard enough for Canada's grain producers to see potential customers obtaining U.S. wheat under loss-leader conditions. It is much worse to find that these customers will be lost to us for several years to come as a result of their commitments to the United States.

What this does to Canada's potential grain markets is obvious. What the United States in effect is doing is to transfer part of its surplus grain problem to Canada. Much of that problem is the direct result of the politically-inspired American policy of subsidizing grain production when markets do not exist for normal absorption of existing supplies.

But one of the most upsetting features of the whole situation is that the U.S. deals with grain customers have been made in secret. Until recently Ottawa had no inkling that such arrangements were being made. We have good cause to feel that there has been something less than candour in this matter. Washington's rejection of Canada's protests regarding the Brazilian deal shows little regard for the welfare of a country which is the United States' best customer.

Mr. Howe hints that the United States will review its policy, although deals up to now will not be affected. While the magnitude of the American wheat surplus problem is fully recognized, some solution should be found which will not wreak hardship on friendly neighbors.

It Could Be Your House Aflame

THROUGHOUT CANADA THIS week the attention of citizens will be drawn to fire prevention practices and the excellent slogan "Don't give fire a place to start."

Householders will note the slogan, be impressed by events calculated to make them safety conscious and—in too many instances—decide to do something about fire hazards later.

For some of those who don't get around to cleaning out cupboards stuffed with paper and other inflammable material, as well as for those who put off inspection of and repairs to flues and wiring, the delay will be tragic.

Canadians hold the unenviable record of having one of the highest annual fire losses, per capita, in the world. They are heading now into the season when demands for house warmth will lead to overheated stoves, furnace pipes and other appliances. Inevitably the newspapers will start shortly to carry their harrowing stories of homes destroyed and people killed by fire.

Some outbreaks will be beyond human ability to prevent. Most of them will be caused by carelessness and by negligence.

The plea of firemen goes out now to householders to do what they can to protect themselves. It is a simple enough request, but it will be unanswered until the citizen acts on the advice he receives—and the time to do it is now.

Public Relations Test

POLITICAL CORRESPONDENTS accompanying top figures in the U.S. presidential campaign are paying particular attention to the techniques of the two parties.

They seem to be weighing, in their own minds, the public appeal of the high-efficiency public relations approach by Mr. Richard Nixon and the somewhat less well-oiled machinery of Mr. Stevenson's campaign.

They note, for instance, the intrusion of a small boy as the Nixon air caravan lands and the request for a vice-presidential autograph. It is met immediately by a secretary who steps forward with a card already signed. No wait, no time waste, no disruption of program.

They speak of arrangements for the Nixon party and press at the hotel, where keys are already tagged and distributed without the customary fuss at the hotel desk.

Against that they draw attention to one of Mr. Stevenson's minor difficulties. The Democratic nominee, it appears, has yet to learn that it is better to spread a 20 minutes television talk over 30 minutes of a TV program than to try to crowd 40 minutes of material into the available half hour before the cameras.

The impression created by these correspondents is one of a Nixon tour timed with split-second precision, neatly packaged and offered with the best techniques of salesmanship. Against that is placed a Stevenson routine in which occur some of the minor hitches customary for a person moving about the country.

The outside observer is left to wonder how voters will respond to the two operations—the perfectly stage-managed show, the somewhat lumpier and more natural performance.

Here, among other things, is a test of the ability of public relations experts to reach and influence the ordinary man who marks a ballot. It could be highly effective. Or, conceivably, it might create a mild resentment in the individual who may think that he is being manipulated too much by highly skilled hands.

Story of B.C. in Maps

THE NEW BRITISH COLUMBIA Atlas of Resources is now making its way to individuals and institutions who want an all-embracing compilation of primary British Columbia information in graphic and easily understood form.

It is an excellent compilation. Reading matter, maps and graphs are uniformly good. In short order the reader can find accurate information, with illustrations, on matters ranging from early explorers to hydro development.

This is a project undertaken by the B.C. Natural Resources Conference of 1956. It has been edited by Mr. J. D. Chapman, of the U.B.C. department of geography and Dr. D. B. Turner, director of conservation for the provincial department of lands and forests, with A. L. Farley, geographic division of the B.C. department of lands and forests and R. I. Ruggles, division of geography at U.B.C. serving as cartographic editors.

They have combined as a team to produce a work of exceptional value for reference on industrial, physical, cultural and historical matters as they exist in the province.

The volume, 92 pages 17 by 22 inches, can be purchased in editions ranging in price from $7.50 to $15 plus mailing costs and tax. At either higher or lower figure, it is a bargain, particularly designed for the teacher and student, but with wide appeal to all in or beyond the province who want up-to-date information and unique maps to extend their knowledge of British Columbia.

"PRESLEY IS KING," SAYS Louis "Ol' Satchmo" Armstrong who has been blowing a trumpet for 43 years, "but all this jumpin' and hollerin' won't last like music the same as the St. Louis Blues."

Thus a reputable expert in the field of popular music dismisses the current teenage vocal craze.

We hope Satchmo is right. And we'll happily ignore the fact that a generation ago parents were saying, "Bing Crosby is popular, but all this groaning and moaning can't last like music the same as the Missouri Waltz."

LOOSE ENDS

The Top of the World

MY NEW friend, James Riviere (no one calls him Jim) looked me over doubtfully and cast a hard, shrewd eye upon my lady companion. Obviously he didn't think we could make it. But in the end we did make it. We made it up to nearly 10,000 feet and there, for the first time, discovered the Rocky Mountains. Everybody thinks he has seen the Rockies from a train, a car or an airplane.

No one has really seen them until he has ridden through them on horseback, with such a man as Riviere, far from the paved road, from the tourist resorts and the dunes of Banff and Jasper.

This is not easy to arrange nowadays. There are few fellows like Riviere and his pack train. Happily Matt Halton, a native of Pincher Creek and now a famous figure in London, was out in these parts a few months ago and told me of his boyhood neighbor, the son of the legendary "Frenchie" Riviere, who probably knew more about the Rockies of southern Alberta than any man of his time.

So we found ourselves, a month ago, at the end of a winding, rutted road west of Pincher Creek with nothing in front of us but a trail and the gaudy autumn backdrop of the mountains.

RIVIERE was entertaining an old pal, named Cliff Whipple, who has retired from prairie ranching to live near Sidney, and these two veteran adventurers were presently engaged in a curious enterprise. They had taken the day off to rescue a dozen trout, trapped in a shallow pond by a new beaver dam and certain to be frozen in the winter.

Riviere has killed grizzly bears, elk, sheep, goats and other creatures without number but he could not bear to see a dozen six-inch trout die a few yards from his house.

It was necessary, therefore, to postpone the essential business of the cattle round-up, to call in the two hired men and to postpone our expedition into the mountains while we tried to catch the fish and, failing there, dig a gigantic ditch to drain the pond. We rescued all but two of the prisoners and released them in the icy waters of Carpenter Creek at a cost, as I reckoned it, of about $15 per trout.

(I've told you before that everybody in the foothills is crazy and that's why I feel so much at home among these people.)

AFTER this essential project had been successfully completed and we were all well caked in mud, Riviere packed three large horses with enough supplies to take us around the world and we started into the mountains, not a dim view of his guests.

It was one of those hot, brilliant deceptive days of late September when the popular fog was spilling in liquid gold across the foothills, the sky metallic blue and far below us the parishes laid out in lilac squares of yellow, brown, green and black to the outer edge of the world.

I was surprised, therefore, when Riviere (a giant built on sharp angles and flat, muscular planes) said we should make camp in mid-afternoon before the sun went down. He tethered his horses in a grassy meadow where the fairies dance, beside a waterfall surging out of a naked cliff, and by the time we had erected two tents and got a fire going ice was beginning to form on our water bucket.

I REALIZED then why Riviere had had considered rather effeminate. That tent was the only warm spot within several hundred square miles of empty cold and the temperance drink mixed by Cliff Whipple, of boiling water, sugar and a moderate dash of Scotch whisky, tasted better than any champagne.

Next morning Riviere produced his masterpiece on a trying-pan and I say of it only that my lady companion, who customarily eats one piece of toast for breakfast, engorged 13 pancakes the size of wagon wheels, with trimmings of bacon and eggs.

Thus reinforced, we rode upwards through the dwindling timber until we reached a bare ridge of shale where the wind blew out of the glaciers and life was reduced to a few lichens on the polished rocks.

THERE, two miles above sea level, we blinked across a dizzy canyon at the spectacle of British Columbia. I knew at once that it was British Columbia because the mountains to the westward were bigger and more gaudy than those of Alberta. If we had slipped on that slide of shale we should have rolled, I guess, right down to tidewater.

The problem was to cross a mile of slide and I didn't think any horse could reach the other side. Even Riviere dismounted and led his horse and, in the rare atmosphere, this giant was soon puffing and pausing every dozen steps for breath. The horses stumbled, halted and wheezed, my lady companion did not dare look downwards into that fearful vacuum, and I suddenly appreciated those daring men who climbed Mount Everest.

BUT AFTER an endless hour without oxygen we reached the other side of the ridge, remounted and slid down a couple thousand feet into another suburb of fairyland, beside another icy creek where, Riviere said, no one had camped for at least 20 years and where, through his binoculars, we watched a mother mountain sheep lead her fluffy lamb at breakneck speed across a verticle cliff which no horse or man could even approach.

Close by tracks almost a foot long showed that a grizzly had been present within the hour but fortunately he was not interested in visitors from the coast.

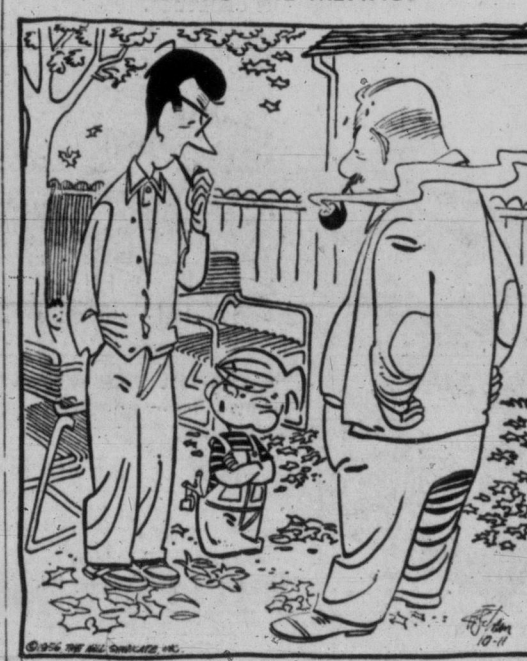

So we mixed up another temperance drink and watched a round harvest moon suddenly turn the Rockies to solid silver while the Great Dipper wheeled up behind a ragged pinnacle, the wind seemed to shake the very mountains and between the four of us we mastered 59 hot cakes, according to my careful count.

As Our Readers See It

Church and 'Enlightenment'

Evangelist Tom Rees recently complained of "an appalling lack of interest in the church, on the part of young people today" and your church editor wondered what the answer might be.

To those of us intelligent enough to see that every sincere effort to attain the truth must start with a doubt of traditional dogma, and who thus have managed to break out of the credulous religious fog that blanketed our ancestors during the Dark Ages—and still exists pretty thick in places—the answer is a very obvious one.

Young folks today, having access everywhere to more and more scientific enlightenment in this scientific age, are more and more dedicated to the use of reason and less and less liable to that gullibility which accepts the sort of archaic, blood atonement and other superstitions once fed to our forefathers. High pressure evangelists and all of the clergy must come up to date and shed the lingering ideas of a fast fading age of credulity.

Given only 50 years more of this "Age of Enlightenment" and spread of scientific knowledge, most church properties will be "for sale" and there will be no audience anywhere for evangelists.

Wage Price Chase

It is unfortunate to read in the newspapers and to hear over the radio of the unsettled state of industry, in spite of prosperous times, through strikes or threatened strikes for higher wages.

Within certain limits it is the duty of trade union leaders to make the best bargain they can for their fellow members, but to exceed those limits and to force up prices still further is a crime against the nation and involves their own members in the common ruin that will overtake us all.

It is those who can least afford it who are suffering by this senseless round of wages chasing prices and prices chasing wages.

Fifteen and twenty years ago money was looked upon as sacred, but today it has little or no value.

Socialism and CCF

The "Socialist" CCF's new party line pledges not to destroy the "right kind" of private enterprise, but only the monopolistic type.

Is non-monopolistic private enterprise less capitalistic than monopolistic private enterprise? Of course not. Both are privately owned and controlled. Both hire and exploit wage-labor. The profits of capitalist enterprise, monopolistic or not, represent unpaid labor, labor performed by the workers for which they are not paid. Genuine Socialism, taught by the Socialist Labor Party, recognizes no "right kind" of plundering of the workers' product. Socialism—social administration of the means of production—requires that the workers be organized in the industries to collectively administer them, the establishment of governmental organs through which this social control can be exercised.

Socialist government must be cast in the mold of industry, with industrial instead of territorial constituencies and representation. The only form of government answering this need is the industrial government discovered by Daniel De Leon. The governing councils of Socialist society must be industrial councils, elected by the workers in the shop, plant, regional and national levels, to direct and co-ordinate production.

Evening Out

This was my experience. If you think it is worth a small part in your paper it might please your readers.

She was a bewildered neat little old lady wearing clothes of the early nineties vintage. She was standing at the corner of Fort and Douglas Street at about 5:30 p.m. one evening.

As I approached she hesitated then finally spoke to me in a very precise way. "Excuse me for speaking to you. I have come in to the bus depot and have an hour to wait for my other bus. My sister told me that I must not leave the depot, but when the bus arrived I just looked out on the street and walked along, and here I am." Her old eyes twinkled as she spoke. "Would you please be kind enough to tell me where I can get a good hot meal where ladies would be safe."

I escorted her to the nearest restaurant for her bus, and saw that she got a seat in a booth. The last I saw was a timid little old lady, seated in a booth, clutching like grim death her well worn handbag.

What Is It?

Anyone who has seen the contraption being built on the way to the beach off Cook Street, blocking the path, must wonder whose brains hatched up such a monstrosity and say to themselves "This is the way our tax money goes."

It surely will cost many hundreds of dollars if not thousands, whereas two or three hundred at the most would have put the existing path in good order for all time. Now anyone wanting to get to the beach must go down to Clover Point or in the other direction, and many older people who cannot manage steps are completely deprived of the beach this lovely weather.

A few shelters built on the top such as those in most English sea side places would have been of more benefit and lasting beauty.

FROM LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY

By STEWART ALSOP

The One-Edged Sword

THERE is one issue here, and one only, which really makes the pulses of the voters beat faster. It is the one issue which is never mentioned at all by any of the Kentucky's four senatorial candidates.

The issue is, of course, the racial integration of the schools. This reporter spent many hours interviewing voters in four districts of this city, carefully chosen by a professional public opinion expert to represent an economic and political cross-section. The purpose was to test, not only voting intentions, but the voters' reactions to three subjects—the president's health, Adlai Stevenson's divorce, and school integration.

The reactions to questions about the President's health and Stevenson's divorce were curiously similar. "Why, that never entered my head," people would say, often in a tone of protest tinged with indignation, or: "Why, I don't think that has any bearing at all."

Once in a long while—perhaps once in 15 interviews—someone would say that the president's health was "something you had to think about." But in every case the voter who expressed such doubts had already made up his mind to vote Democratic on other grounds.

In short, Democratic strategists who are counting on "the health issue" as a central Stevenson asset would appear to be fooling themselves—an observation born out of other pulse-taking expeditions in other parts of the country.

By the same token we found not a single voter—no one—who admitted that he was influenced in any way by Stevenson's divorce. This was true of Catholic voters as of others. One man said: "I'm a Catholic and I suppose I ought to think about it, but I don't."

Some people, no doubt, are not wholly candid when they talk about such subjects with a stranger. But again and again, one sensed a feeling of indignation that such personal matters should be discussed at all. Both the president's health and Stevenson's divorce are clearly political two-edged swords.

The integration issue is, on the other hand, a one-edged sword, in the sense that it cuts in only one direction among the whites in this border state city.

For, especially in the poorer white sections of this city, the resistance to integration is absolutely monolithic.

Occasionally it is blind and bitter and filled with unreasoning hate. More often it takes the form expressed by an elderly one-legged man in a low income housing project in the Shelby area: "I don't think the Negroes should be tromped on. I think they should have as good a chance, as anyone else. But I sure don't see why we should be all mixed up together."

Unions and Race

The resistance is especially strong in the heavily unionized workers' districts—the idea that racial liberalism goes hand-in-hand with unionization is simply not true, at least in these parts.

In this respect, in fact, the Catholic Church has done a far more effective job of persuasion than the unions—"We've had colored children in the parochial schools for some time now," one Catholic worker said, "and it's worked out all right." He was typical of others.

As one moves away from the crowded low-income areas into the middle class districts like Highlands or Crescent Hills, one finds a milder reaction. Once in a while, a person will even express approval of the integration program—"Color's only skin deep," one man said, and a woman remarked that "it's all according to the Good Book."

But even in such areas, the white people oppose integration by an overwhelming majority. The political implications of this almost universal feeling are suggested by the hostility to Kentucky's Governor "Happy" Chandler which is found everywhere in Louisville. Chandler is heartily disliked for many excellent reasons.

Raised Opposition

But the unpalatable truth is that he is disliked most for one of the few really responsible acts of his career—calling out the National Guard to prevent rioting over integration in Sturgis, Kentucky.

Disregarding the issues which really hit home to the voters is not usually a laudable practice in a democracy. But in these special circumstances, it is to the credit of all four major candidates in Kentucky that not one of them has seized the one-edged sword of integration, to slash his opponent's jugular with it.

For the Negro vote is a surprisingly small minority of the total in this border state. And there is much political hay to be made from the integration issue, by any politician who wished to do so at the risk of sparking a general racial conflict.

'Thanksgiving'

NEXT week, for the first time in my life, I'm going to be a canvasser for the Community Chest.

I'm not sure yet which streets I'll have to canvass. But I'm quite sure of the reasons why I undertook to do this job.

I'm doing it as a sort of personal thanksgiving. Because I've had all the lucky breaks in life—good parents, good education, happy childhood, normal intelligence and better-than-average health.

And, somewhere along the line, it was firmly drilled into me that we are our brothers' keepers, and that the fortunate have a definite duty to the less fortunate members of society.

These are some of the personal reasons why I feel very strongly about the Community Chest.

Actually, I prefer the simpler setup of a village where neighbors can look after the poor, the crippled, the blind, the old and the people who've gone astray.

I prefer it because of the personal touch and because it seems more natural to do these things in a neighborly kind of way.

But village methods aren't practical or possible in the more complex setting of a larger city. (This more impersonal giving through special agencies is simply part of the price we pay for size and progress.)

Moreover, I haven't the training or the time to do the specialized work that's done by the organizations which are helped by the Community Chest.

As I see it, the least I can do is give money to the Chest, and let the workers in the various agencies do the tasks which, in a simpler age, would have been done directly by the organizations which are helped by the Chest.

And if, as a canvasser, I can help to collect money from other people, too, then I am all for being a canvasser.

And I'm all for a United Appeal like that of the Community Chest. If the 19 Red Feather agencies which are grouped together in the Community Chest were to make separate appeals, the waste of money, time and effort would be ridiculous. I only wish that some of the other independent organizations would join the United Appeal instead of sending their begging letters separately through the mail.

It's sad, perhaps, that charity has become divorced from neighborly care and love, and has developed into a matter of payroll deductions, installment giving and receipts for purposes of income tax exemption.

But this is the 20th century version of charity. And, detached and distant though it may be, the spirit behind it is still the same.

To me, the spirit is expressed in First Corinthians, Chapter 13, and in the Golden Rule which is found in one form or another in nearly all the major religions.

I know men often say that women take things personally. But I can't see what's wrong with having a personal approach to a worthwhile endeavour like the Community Chest.

So, PERSONALLY, I've never had to ask any of these organizations for help. But that's been my good fortune. It's no particular credit to me.

What would happen if my fortune were to change?

What might have happened if I hadn't had all the lucky breaks?

If I were old or blind, or crippled, or in trouble, or chronically ill and unable to nurse myself at home, I'd feel terrible if no one cared enough to spend some time and money helping me.

Wouldn't you feel just the same?

Wouldn't the callous disregard be the final misfortune that was almost too much for you to bear?

YOUR HEALTH

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Any person whose lymph nodes in the neck enlarge greatly should know enough to go quickly to a physician to see what is wrong. Oftentimes, when the glands enlarge a little bit, perhaps with an attack of what looks like a siege of influenza, it doesn't mean much. There are many persons whose lymph nodes tend to enlarge whenever they run a fever.

Some young people get glandular fever or infectious mononucleosis. This is an influenza-like disease which can make the person uncomfortable for six months or more. The disease can be identified by laboratory tests.

In the old days, many young people in tuberculous families got enlarged lymph nodes in the neck, and later these broke down and discharged for years. Today, we seldom see this. Nobody but an old physician knows what a wonderful boon to children certified and pasteurized milks have been. In the old days, when children drank raw milk, they took in large numbers of tubercle bacilli from the often infected cows. As a result, hundreds of thousands got tuberculosis of lymph nodes, joints, bones, bowels and the meninges (coverings of the brain), or the kidneys.

In middle-aged persons great enlargement of the lymph nodes can be due to Hodgkin's disease, which is a cancer-like disease due apparently to a virus. It can be cleared up often with X-ray. I have seen cases in which it disappeared for seven or eight years.

In older persons the physician has to think of cancer which has spread down from the region of the mouth or up from the lungs or the stomach. Often the best thing the physician can do is to remove a gland and examine it under the microscope to see what it is.

BREAST OPERATIONS

Many women keep asking me if they should send for one of the quack remedies that, according to advertisements, will cause a much-desired enlargement of the breasts. My answer is that the Better Business Bureaus tell me that the herb in these medicines is of absolutely no value. It has no effect whatsoever on the breasts. Unfortunately, many women are so unhappy with their small breasts that they will hand their money over to any crook who will promise them results.

A few years ago, some surgeons advocated pushing small breasts forward by stuffing in behind them a certain amount of sponge-like plastic. I doubted very much if this was wise because experiments have shown that almost any plastic, when put in contact with the tissues of the body, will produce cancer. Accordingly, I advised the women who asked me about the operation not to have it. However, many went ahead and were operated on, and recently some have been writing to tell me that they not only failed to get the results they desired, but they got themselves into a mess. Their breasts felt so hard and lumpy and uncomfortable that they had to go to another surgeon and ask him to take the material out again.

Every so often I see a woman with such large breasts that she wishes something could be done to cut down on their weight and to lessen the deformity. Many a time in the past, when I have asked an excellent breast or plastic surgeon if he cared to help such an unhappy woman with her problem, he said that he did not dare attempt it. He knew the technic of the several operations that have been designed to do what the woman wanted, but, in his experience, the results had so often been unsatisfactory that he did not care to attempt this type of work.

PERSONS TIRED ALL THE TIME

Mrs. Lucile Felin, of Antioch, California, writes that nearly 60 years ago her little sister, aged five, spoke a piece at a church social. This is what she said:

"There was an old woman who always was tired,
She lived in a house where help was not hired.
Her last words on earth were,
'Dear Friends, I am going
Where washing ain't done or cooking or sewing,
And everything there will be exact to my wishes,
For where they don't eat, there's no washing of dishes,
Don't cry for me now, don't cry for me ever,
I'm going to do nothing for ever and ever!'"

I am sure that this will strike a most responsive chord in the hearts of thousands of very tired women!

Russ Experts Invade China, Says Red Dean

LONDON (Reuters) — Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the "Red" Dean of Canterbury, reports Communist China has been "invaded" by technicians, trucks and machinery from the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Germany and Hungary, and even some from West Germany.

He returned to London with his wife and two daughters after a 15,000-mile journey by plane, boat and car through central Asia; western, central and southern China; Peiping and Mongolia.

Dr. Johnson said in an interview that he had found western China rich in oil, coal, iron and other minerals.

He said that people from the China coast were flocking westward in large numbers to exploit China's newly-discovered wealth.

RCN Gets New Anti-Sub Planes Friday

OTTAWA (CP) — The first of Canada's new hunter-killer anti-submarine planes, the CS2F-1, will be formally delivered to the navy at a special ceremony at Toronto's Downsview airport Friday.

The new plane, loaded with anti-submarine detection and attack equipment, is being built by the de Havilland Aircraft Company of Canada. It is the first naval aircraft for the RCN to be manufactured in this country and the largest ever built by de Havilland of Canada.

It will replace the Grumman Avenger which has been in RCN service since 1950. Some 100 of the new planes eventually will go into service aboard Canada's new aircraft carrier, the Bonaventure, now completing at Belfast.

Constable Abused, Man Fined Total $75

NANAIMO (BUP) — A Lady-smith man who called an RCMP constable "all the filthy names his limited vocabulary would allow" was fined a total of $75 in Nanaimo police court.

George Grafton was fined $50 for having liquor in his possession in a public place and $25 for disturbing the peace.

Staff Sergeant J. O. Hall testified the man was seen with a bottle of liquor in the Shasta Cafe and, when questioned, refused to give his name and abused the constable.

Bishops to Decide Sacrament Rights for Rewed Divorcees

By JOHN DUDMAN

LONDON (Reuters) — Church of England bishops ruled Wednesday that a bishop should decide whether to allow divorced members of the church, who remarry during the lifetime of their former partner to take holy communion.

A meeting of the upper house of the Convocation of Canterbury approved a recommendation that a parish priest should consult his bishop when divorced persons wished to attend holy communion.

The recommendation was opposed by the Bishop of Birmingham, Dr. J. L. Wilson, who said the disciplinary use of excommunication went against some of the more striking commandments.

He believed to deny the grace of holy communion to people in need of it was a grave thing and should be reconsidered. He moved an amendment to delete the recommendation. But the amendment, seconded by the Bishop of Chelmsford, Dr. S. F. Allison, was overwhelmingly defeated.

SERIOUS MATTER

Opposing the proposed deletion of the recommendation, Dr. R. C. Mortimer, Bishop of Exeter, said the use of excommunication was regarded as an extremely serious and grave matter by all bishops. The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, regretted the use of the word "excommunication."

"That is not what we are after," he said.

"We are after restoration. I think it is true to say that we agree wholeheartedly that this regulation is designed to secure a pastoral opportunity which without discipline you cannot secure.

Later Dr. Fisher, in a report to the lower house of the convocation, said the existence of different theological views on remarried divorced persons and sacraments was accepted, but the church must have a discipline to apply.

The bishops also adopted a resolution recognizing that the church has "a pastoral duty" toward divorced persons who marry during the lifetime of their former partner.

Big gain for the kitchen quarterback

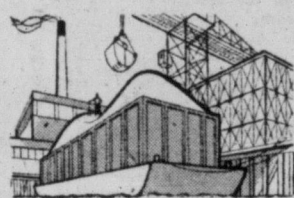

An exciting game on a crisp fall day puts an edge on appetites to challenge any hostess. Nowadays, thanks to the miracle of quick-to-prepare frozen foods, she can serve impromptu guests flavorful meals or snacks with little time out for cooking.

Paper products, like Crown Zellerbach's waxed overwrap, help protect and seal fruits, vegetables, fish, fowl and meat in refrigerators and cold storage lockers.

Coated waxed paper prevents dehydration and lockerburn... preserves taste and color... keep foods "in season" the year round.

In our new Richmond, B.C., converting plant, high-speed waxing machines help us meet the growing demand for waxed paper, expected to double in 25 years. Here, for example, every hour, a sheet of lockwrap 4 feet wide and 5 miles long can be manufactured.

A growth company, Crown Zellerbach is spending $40,000,000 on improvement and expansion in Canada to help keep paper at the service of Canadians everywhere.

Crown Zellerbach's program of integrating forest and mill operations makes maximum use of all wood. Last year, for instance, 20% of the pulp and paper output at our Ocean Falls Mill came from chips made from formerly unused sawmill waste.

Other groups applying are the Cambrian Television Service, one of whose directors in Canada and the United States.

'COULDN'T DO JUSTICE TO ROLE'—SULLIVAN

NEW YORK (UP)—Actress Margaret Sullivan turned up by proxy Wednesday night to explain why she failed to appear for a television performance.

She blamed her disappearance on a "misunderstanding."

The 45-year-old veteran of stage, screen and TV said she decided she would be unable to give the role "the kind of performance it deserved" and informed the producer last Sunday she could not go on.

She was to have appeared Monday night on the CBS "Studio One" program in "The Pilot," a play based on the life of Sister Mary Aquinas, a nun who learned to fly a plane.

The network was forced to cancel the play when Miss Sullivan failed to appear by broadcast time. A kinescope of a play presented previously was substituted.

SPCA Ex-Inspector Maggs Guilty Of Abortion Attempt as Doctor

An Assize Court jury Wednesday found Benjamin Robert Maggs, a former SPCA inspector, guilty of attempting an abortion while posing as a doctor on April 1.

Mr. Justice Harold McInnes remanded Maggs until Friday for sentence.

The 12-man jury deliberated for over an hour before returning a verdict of guilty of attempting an abortion on Joyce Margaret Billings, at 2727 Wark Street.

Crown evidence during the three-day trial, showed that Maggs posed as a neurosurgeon and RCMP surgeon, and was known by soldiers at the Gordon Head camp as a doctor.

Cards introduced him as Dr. B. R. Maggs, Ph.D., M.D., B.Sc., MA., FRAM, of London and Italy.

Mrs. Billings testified at the three-day trial that Maggs was brought to her home on April 1 by Stanley Glenn Frohman, a member of the Second Battalion, QORs, with whom she was living. Frohman introduced Maggs to her as a doctor.

He said he refused to do so and warned them of the danger of such an operation. Maggs also denied that he posed as a doctor and had on occasions treated soldiers at the Gordon Head camp. He claimed that he was called "doctor" by soldiers because of his veterinary work at the camp.

URGENT NEEDS of the Community Chest this year were outlined to Victoria Press workers Wednesday by R. B. Wilson, Chest president, who complimented the gathering on its contributions in the past. (Times Photo.)

Community Chest Chief Addresses VPL Employees

The busy schedule of Community Chest president R. B. "Dick" Wilson was stretched still more Wednesday when he told Victoria Press Ltd. employees that the 300-odd firm members had helped point the way in payroll deduction contributions to the Red feather.

Goal this year is $220,000. VPL vice-president Stuart Keate said employees contributions showed the support of the press of the 19-agency scheme.

"You've done a very fine job in years past," said Mr. Wilson. Last year from VPL, 335 staff members contributed.

The Chest president pointed out that despite prosperity, there were many agencies that needed help, such as assistance to the blind, aid for juvenile delinquents, help to parents and children of broken homes, and the aged.

Close to 19 per cent of Victoria's population is over age 65.

NEEDS OF AGED GROW

The Chest this year intends to underwrite service for the aged which is expected to mushroom tremendously.

With all the obligations of the Chest, money asked this year is "modest," Mr. Wilson said.

Labor groups this year, which have thrown their weight behind Chest activity with employers, were termed "a lesson in democracy."

Administrative costs in the campaign amount to only 2.8 cents out of each dollar given, said Mr. Wilson.

Land-Short City Gets OK to Move Cemetery

Because of the shortage of land at Kamloops, the B.C. government has approved the removal of all coffins from an indigent cemetery there.

The coffins will be moved to a common grave in the provincial home cemetery in the interior centre.

Eight principal causes of fires in Canadian homes are: Careless smoking; and handling of matches; misuse of electricity; defective or overheated heating and cooking equipment; improper disposal of rubbish; careless handling of kerosene and other flammable liquids; lightning; defective or overheated chimneys; children and matches.

Strict regulations have been laid down for the removal of the coffins. Mechanical methods may be used "only to a point well above the top level of the caskets," and the remainder of the digging "shall be done manually and under constant supervision of a responsible official."

Complete records must be kept as each casket is removed and placed in the other cemetery.

Tanga Woman Crashes Gate; Meets Princess

TANGA, Tanganyika (Reuters) — An African woman gate-crashed a formal reception of African chiefs here Wednesday to ask Princess Margaret "How are you, my daughter?"

The woman, 45-year-old Abubi Salima, walked over to the princess when she visited Tanga, the country's "hemp capital" for a few hours Wednesday.

Ignoring the stern looks on the faces of the dignitaries, Abubi shook the surprised but smiling princess warmly by the hand.

"My heart made me want to meet the princess," said Abubi afterward. "She is 'masure sana' (very nice)."

Today at Dar-es-Salaam the Princess heard an African fisherman recite a poem he had written, welcoming her as "the star of freedom to the land of the Africans."

"Our soil is too hard for the seed of revolt but fertile for quick growth and the spread of good seed," the Swahili verse said.

Fisherman-poet Mwida Ulenge recited to the Princess during a visit she made to an African community centre.

The Princess also took time out to go shopping for presents for Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

$7,500 MORE ALLOCATED FOR LEGISLATURE AREA

The B.C. government is to spend a further $7,500 on its plan to develop the area around the legislative buildings.

The cabinet has approved the purchase of two 60-year-old homes on the south side of Michigan Street between Menzies and Government for the public works department.

Clive Campbell, deputy minister, said the government's policy is to take over land around the buildings as it comes up for sale.

THE LUSTRE, WITHOUT RE-WAXING!

JOHNSON'S STRIDE takes it like paste wax. Now from the Johnson's Wax Laboratories comes Stride — an entirely new kind of liquid self-polishing wax that actually protects like paste wax. It contains the hardest, brightest, longest-lasting waxes known!

Just spread Stride on—it dries to the same kind of rich, mellow lustre paste wax gives. And from then on, spills wipe away without a trace, even if left for hours. A little buffing erases scuff marks when they begin to show. Your usual damp mopping actually brightens the lustre. You wax less often—that's why Stride is the most economical floor wax you can use! There never was a self-polishing wax like Stride before.

WHY SUFFER? YOU CAN BE FREE OF THE CONSTIPATION HABIT

MILLIONS FIND WAY—WHY NOT YOU?

Try All-Bran with Milk
nature's great food combination

for fitness and regularity

Good food bulk and nutritional benefits

Common constipation due to lack of dietary bulk is often caused by nothing more than careless eating habits. We eat what we want and forget those foods so abundant in nature that were intended to keep us regular.

Yet many people suffer for years with the constipation habit. Suffer and try remedy after remedy that cannot correct this irregularity because the remedy does not get at the cause of the irregularity.

But there is an answer. Millions have found it—so can you. And it is no farther away than your grocers' shelf.

You simply enjoy a bowl of Kellogg's All-Bran with milk, morning or night. This delicious nut-like cereal is inexpensive, pleasant to eat and highly nutritious. And it supplies all the good food bulk you need daily to avoid constipation.

All-Bran contains no miracle ingredients. It is simply a natural food remedy. It gets right at the cause of constipation due to insufficient bulk in the diet. Other means that do not supply bulk cannot overcome this condition.

Kellogg's All-Bran is also a good, wholesome food. It is made from the outer layers of whole wheat grain. A daily bowl of All-Bran with milk provides valuable food essentials.

W. K. Kellogg originated All-Bran over 40 years ago. He aimed to improve the flavor and eating qualities of whole bran without taking away any of its effectiveness. This he accomplished. All-Bran is the most widely accepted and used of all bran cereals. And many prefer All-Bran on taste alone to any other cereal.

So why suffer one day longer with the constipation habit? Kellogg's All-Bran has literally helped millions. It can do the same for you.

Enjoy Kellogg's All-Bran with milk for 10 days. Eat an average serving (half a cup of All-Bran). See if it doesn't bring you gentle, natural regularity—with no distressing after-effects. If not fully satisfied, return the empty carton and get double your money back. That's a promise from Kellogg's, London, Ont.

SNAKES DRIVE FAMILY FROM ALABAMA HOME

MUSCLE SHOALS, Ala. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. William Thigpen are recovering from the shock of finding 13 snakes in their home.

Thigpen found the first one while he was mowing the lawn. Then he found one in the bathroom the following night. When he shot another one in the basement, he telephoned for the exterminators.

The exterminating company applied gas after the Thigpens found a place to stay. Thirteen more snakes came out of hiding to die in the basement. Forty-one eggs, 30 of which had just been hatched, also were found.

The snakes were identified as red corn rat snakes, but it does little good to tell the Thigpens they were harmless.

Fiery Prima Donna Sued For $300,000 by Sponsor

NEW YORK (UP)—Tempestuous soprano Maria Callas, who fled the country last year after a fist-swinging brawl with process servers, was sued for $300,000 today, four days before her scheduled homecoming to prepare for her Metropolitan Opera debut.

Action also was taken to attach all her assets here pending settlement of the suit, filed by a former impresario who claims he launched Miss Callas on a spectacular $3,000,000 operatic career at a loss of at least $75,000 to himself.

He said he was entitled by contract to 10 per cent of the $3,000,000 he estimated she has earned since 1947 as the toast of American and European opera lovers.

The suit was brought in New York Supreme Court by E. Richard Bagarozzy, who claims he loaned $75,000 in presenting the 1946-47 Chicago opera season that started Miss Callas on her way to fame. Barnett Glassman, to whom Bagarozzy is in debt, joined in the suit in the hope of getting some of his money back.

Attorney Solomon Granett, who filed the suit, confirmed in an interview with the United Press that a writ of attachment against New York County sheriff to attach Miss Callas was signed last Friday by State Supreme Court Justice Samuel J. Falco. It ordered the New York County sheriff to attach and hold any assets Miss Callas has in New York.

That means that Miss Callas' earnings from Met appearances and other assets will be held by authorities pending disposition of Bagarozzy's suit.

There was no immediate comment from the Metropolitan Opera, which succeeded in signing Miss Callas for the new season only after she broke her vow never to sing here as long as Rudolf Bing was general manager. She made this vow because he had balked her high fees.

Miss Callas finally saw her prediction come true that some day the Met would "have to have me," but only after she scaled her prima donna figure down from 200 to 135 pounds.

Miss Callas, who lives in Milan with her wealthy Italian industrialist husband, Battista Meneghini, has said she is confident that "the American sense of justice would bring her fair treatment."

Bagarozzy has filed similar suits in circuit and federal courts in Chicago, the scene of Miss Callas' full-throated row with a team of process servers last November. She hastily left the North American continent by way of Montreal and has been in Italy since then.

Miss Callas, born in New York City, December 4, 1923, is the daughter of Greek-born parents. She studied music here and in Greece before beginning her professional career.

Prince's Hair Stirs London Fuss—Closer to Eyebrows Than Usual

LONDON (AP)—Prince Charles' hair style—just the opposite of a crewcut—has become a subject of public discussion.

A heavy growth of brown hair covered the forehead of the seven-year-old heir apparent down to near his eyebrows upon his return Tuesday from a long holiday in Scotland.

The Daily Express remarks that "the prince's hair was even closer to his eyebrows than usual."

"Not one photograph of him has ever revealed his forehead," it says.

The young prince gets his hair-cut for four shillings, six pence, from a barber named Crisp, who calls every two weeks at Buckingham Palace. Crisp works out of an establishment in Curzon Street named "Trumper's."

"We never discuss the heir's hair," Trumper's announced when prodded for a professional description of the style.

But another barber said Charles' hair looks the way it does because it has been styled strictly "with scissors and comb and not just taken off with clippers."

Yankee Pride Rebelled—Didn't Like Being Called 'Bush'

By WILLIAM A. RAYNER
Times Sports Writer

BROOKLYN, U.S.A.—In the end, it was simply Yankee pride that won the 1956 world series.

The Brooklyn Dodgers should have known better than to make a bunch of "bushers" out of the New York Yankees last Friday. That was in the second game of the best-of-seven annual ball classic, the Dodgers winning, 13-8.

The Bronx Bombers didn't like the "bush" title hung on them after that display.

So they roared back with five deadly pitching performances, losing one en route. As a climax they rubbed the Dodgers' noses into the dirt of Ebbets Field Wednesday, 9-0, to win the vital final game and regain the championship of baseball they lost to the same Bums last year.

And as the crowd of 33,782, paid, watched in numb, plaintive silence, the Yankees embellished a masterful three-hit pitching job by Johnny Kucks, abetted by four home runs in 10 hits—a complete rout from start to finish.

Yogi Berra, the roly-poly, humpty-dumpty clown of the training camps a few years ago, who developed into the best catcher in all baseball, led the Yankee batsmen with two home runs, each time with a man on. That proved he was the best if there was any doubt.

... his bat barked

Berra's two round-trippers were off starter and loser, for the fourth time in as many series trips, Don Newcombe.

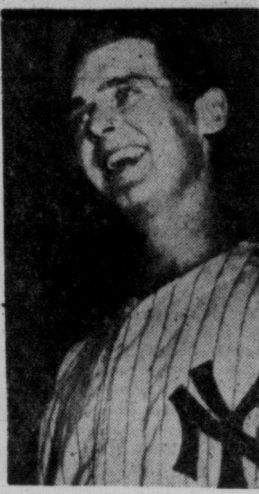

Both blows were over the right-field wall into Bedford Avenue, as was Elston Howard's, precipitating the immediate removal of Newcombe.

The fourth and grandest homer of them all, however, was Moose Skowron's bases-loaded drive into the lower left-field grandstand in the seventh inning, off Roger Craig.

The victory climaxed one of the most remarkable pitching comebacks ever made by a world series team.

Apart from Don Larsen's history-making, 2-0 perfect no-hit, no-run game Monday, the Yankee mounds-men won after that disastrous Friday, 5-3, (nine-hitter by Whitey Ford); 6-2 (six-hitter by Tom Sturdivant); and finally Kucks' three-hitter. Tuesday, Bob Turley turned in a four-hitter, only to lose in the 10th inning, 1-0, on Jackie Robinson's two-out single.

Kucks got it back for Turley Wednesday, striking out Robinson in the last of the ninth to end the game and the series. It was Kucks' only strikeout.

DON LARSEN
... made mound history

The Yankee fortunes were at their lowest ebb that dismal Friday, when manager Casey Stengel used a record seven pitchers trying to stem the second straight victory by the Bums.

But the pummeling only served to bring the New York pitching staff alive. From then on the Dodgers only scored six times in 46 innings, rapping out a measly 22 hits in the process. They only scored once in the last 28 innings of play: in the 10th Tuesday.

But as the pitching staff came through as never believed possible, the Yankee hitters dispelled a few notions themselves about Ebbets Field.

Losers in their last six starts in that soup bowl called a ball park, where only the Brooklyn right-handed lineup was supposed to reign supreme, the Bombers had it in hand from Berra's first-inning homer to Elston Howard's seventh-inning double, shelling five pitchers in between.

The Yanks possibly could have won this one, 1-0 or 2-0, or dramatically at the last moment, a la Jackie Robinson, but their pride rose up to engulf the Dodgers, and the Yankees won the way they were accustomed to win—easily, forcefully and without a shadow of a doubt.

IN HIDING

Newcombe May Bypass Japan Trip

BROOKLYN (AP)—Whether Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's ace pitcher, who was shelled from the mound in the fourth inning of the final world series game Wednesday, will be aboard the plane when the Dodgers leave for Japan today is still unanswered.

A friend quoted the big right-handed hurler as saying he definitely will not make the trip.

"If he doesn't go, he'll be in trouble," said Buzzie Bavasi, Dodger vice-president. "He has signed a contract like the other players and if he doesn't show up then it'll be a matter for the commissioner, Ford Frick, to handle."

Newcombe failed to show up at the Dodgers' party and couldn't be reached for comment.

Bavasi said he was confident Newk was at his Colonia, N.J., home, but refused to answer the phone.

The Regals, who dumped Calgary 3-1 Monday night in a season opener, came up with a 2-1 victory in Calgary Wednesday night to become the first team in either prairie or coast division to win two victories.

In the only other league action, New Westminster Royals muffed a chance to match the Regals by dropping a 5-3 decision to Seattle Americans. The Royals had won by a similar score in New Westminster the previous night.

All other teams have played only one game, with Edmonton and Victoria the respective winners over Winnipeg and Vancouver.

In Calgary, the Regals took over almost from the start. Murray Wilkie scored at 1:21 of the first period when he took Elliot Chordy's relay and shoved it past rookie goalie Marvin Edwards.

Steve Witluk got the tying goal for Calgary at 2:16 of the third period with a shot from the front of the net.

Ray Manson notched the winner by taking a goalmouth pass and scoring with slightly more than four minutes left.

A 23-year-old former Edmonton forward, Ray Kinasewich, collected three goals and an assist to lead the "attle victory. Guyle Fielder and Eddy Dorohoy, who agreed to terms shortly before the season's opener Tuesday, whipped in the others for the Americans while Steve Hymn, Aggie Kukulowicz and Dick Roberge scored for New Westminster.

Dorohoy's goal came on a rink-length dash and broke a 3-3 tie.

Yanks Put Old Brooks On Spot

BROOKLYN (AP)—At least it came quick, clean and decisive, like a pile-driver smashing through an old beaten wall, so that when the end finally came most of the pain had worn off.

That's the best that can be said for Brooklyn today after its crushing 9-0 defeat by the new world champion New York Yankees in the seventh and final game of the 1956 World Series.

The worst that can be said about the Dodgers' worst humiliation in 44 series games with the Yankees is that it gave further evidence of a possible change in Brooklyn personnel next year.

E. J. Buzzie Bavasi, the club's general manager, hinted that some of the Dodgers' old men won't be around next season.

"You can bet some changes will be made," he said, "but we're not going to become panicky. We've got a whole winter to think things out. Fortunately, we've got a fine crop of promising youngsters coming up, some of whom appear ready to step into fast company."

Bavasi didn't single out any individuals but there was no doubt he was referring to such oldsters as Peeewe Reese, Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, Carl Furillo, Sal Maglie and Gil Hodges. The latter, at 32, is the youngest of the sextet.

This once powerhouse array was held to a .195 batting mark in the seven games.

Butlers and Heaneys tangle at Royal Athletic Park Saturday afternoon in a first-round McGavin Cup clash.

Four clubs—Tillamooks, Punjab United, Esquimalt and Canadian Scottish—will be chasing their first victories in Sunday's two league tussles.

Tillamooks, who own a draw in two league starts, take on Punjab, loser in its only outing, at Macdonald Park, while the Scots, two-time losers, meet once-beaten Esquimalt at Heywood Avenue.

All matches start at 2:30 p.m.

Master of Double Talk Not Worried About Job

The 1956 world series, produced a plethora of heroes, but one stood out above the rest—the grey-haired old codger with the crooked legs and the snaphammer baseball brain.

The baseball world hails catcher Yogi Berra, who blasted three home runs and overtook the great Lou Gehrig as the world series runs-batted-in leader of all time. Gehrig had nine; Yogi has 10. Fans salute Don Larsen, who pitched the first perfect game in the classic, and his mound mates, bullet Bob Turley and Johnny Kucks, who helped limit the fence-rattling Dodgers to seven hits and a single run in the last 28 innings.

But Casey just winks—and keeps on winning championships. When Yogi blended two home runs and overtook the great Lou Gehrig as the world series runs-batted-in leader of all time, Gehrig had nine; Yogi has 10. Fans salute Don Larsen, who pitched the first perfect game in the classic, and his mound mates, bullet Bob Turley and Johnny Kucks, who helped limit the fence-rattling Dodgers to seven hits and a single run in the last 28 innings.

Stengel, the millionaire, remains the clown prince of the champion Yankees but coaches and players alike jump when he barks. He's the master.

And how about trying for championship No. 7 in 1957? "Well," said the Case, "I ain't worrying about my job."

Casey refused to be shaken. He won at Yankee Stadium with Ford, Larsen and Bob Sturdivant to go up 3-2 in the series.

Stengel was criticized for starting the 40-year-old Enos Slaughter in leftfield, but Slaughter's hitting was one of the features of the opening games.

In the final game Stengel, as often is his wont, defied percentages, benched left-hand hitting Joe Collins and Slaughter and put in right-hand hitters and Bill Skowron at first and Elston Howard in leftfield, against the right-hand pitching Don Newcombe.

"Has Casey popped his lid?" someone asked disbelievingly.

Rocky Just 'Hired Help' To Al Weill

He Treated Me Like I Was Nothing—Rocky

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Retired heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano says that his manager, Al Weill, "treated me like I was nothing," although he could not have won the title without him.

Marciano wrote on the fifth installment of a six-part biographical series in the Saturday Evening Post that in their relationship Weill acted like the king and "I was still just the hired help."

"When we traveled, he had the suite and I had the single room," Marciano said. "He controlled everything I did. The only decision I ever made for myself was when I decided to retire last spring."

"He told me when to go to bed, when to get up, what to eat, what to drink, what to read, who to talk to, where to go, who to do favors for. My family was nothing. He decided when I could get married to Barbara, when I could see her, when we could talk to each other on the phone, when we could write each other, when we could raise a family."

But Marciano emphasized that Weill "gave me an honest count every time."

NEVER CHEATED

"I never knew the exact terms of any contract I had with him," the former champion said. "But I know he never cheated me."

"Weill made life miserable for you, but he looked out for his fighters," Marciano said. "Weill wanted to take care of his fighters no matter who they were . . . and he was all right with me when I decided to retire. He raised a fuss at first . . . but as soon as he realized I meant it, he accepted it. He didn't want me to change my mind or anything, and I represented a lot of money to him if I kept on fighting."

"With all the hard times he gave me, I got to admit that I couldn't have won it (the championship) without him," he said. "All the sacrifices he demanded from Barbara and me were intended to help me get to the top. Weill was strict and tough and sometimes unreasonable, but he knew what he was doing as a manager. He figured out every move, and he made sure I only met guys he thought I could beat. He knew exactly when I was ready for the next step up. Right from the beginning he handled me perfect."

Marciano said if he had a son who wanted to be a fighter and was willing to work and make the necessary sacrifices, he would "do everything to help him."

"And for a manager, I'd want him to have someone like Al Weill," he said. "I wouldn't have been champ without him."

Non-Support

MONTREAL (CP)—Jim Chambers, 29-year-old former backfielder with Edmonton Eskimos, appeared in court Tuesday charged with non-support of his wife and two children.

Chambers, ordered to pay his family $25 a week, was released when he said he is trying to recover from a leg injury and return to major football where "I could make a lot more money."

Mt. Douglas Victor; Bays, Vics Play Draw

The 1956-57 high school sports program opened with a bang Wednesday. The High School Soccer League got under way with games at Mount View and Victoria High School.

Mount Douglas got the jump on Mount View for a 1-0 victory, while Oak Bay and Vic High played to a 2-2 draw. Esquimalt had a bye.

In the Vic High-Oak Bay tussle it was Tom Fitzsimmons who saved the day for the Bays, scoring both goals—one with only 45 seconds left to play. Vic High's Tom Collett scored soon after Fitzsimmons' initial effort, to end scoring for the first half, but Eric Robinson gave Vic High what looked like a safe lead in the latter stages of the second half as he booted home a loose ball from a scramble in the Oak Bay goal mouth.

Play then ranged the length of the field as Oak Bay sought to score, finally culminating in the tying tally by Fitzsimmons that forced Vic High to share points with the Oak Bay squad.

One Dog Only Qualifies in Test

Buff, a cross-bred belonging to Mrs. J. L. Smith of 1672 Rose Street, was the only dog to qualify in the Greater Victoria Dog Obedience Training Club's first tracking test held in the Henderson Road fields recently.

A blustery wind made the trial confusing for the three dogs competing. Buff has already won the Club Utility degree, the Dr. M. Y. Jones Memorial Cup for the highest scoring dog in the trial; the Sunray Seaforth Shield for winning his CDX degree and the Haven Bonny Jean Challenge Cup for winning the utility.

All Sports Included In Centennial Plans

Sports programs will play a major part in British Columbia's Centennial celebrations and sports officials throughout the province have been asked to assist in plans to make 1956 the greatest year in B.C.'s athletic history.

National and international events, which may include the Grey Cup football classic and the Macdonald's Brier curling final, will hold the sports spotlight but intercity competition and local activities are also being encouraged by the B.C. Centennial Committee.

Special Centennial awards in various fields of sport are under consideration by the committee and new events will be supported with the aim of publicizing British Columbia as a sportsman's paradise.

Professor Bob Osborne, chairman of the sub-committee on athletics, stresses that no cohesive, province-wide program will be possible without the assistance and suggestions of sports leaders in every city, village or district.

"We hope to contact as many officials of the sporting fraternity as possible," says Osborne. "We also want to hear from any local centennial committee which hopes to include sports events in its celebrations."

Osborne is director of physical education at the University of British Columbia, Vancouver, and mail may be addressed to him at the university.

RADIO HELMET HERE TO STAY

CHICAGO (AP)—Like the guided missile, electronic-steered football may be here to stay. George Halas, the papa bear of Chicago Bears and a patriarch of the National Football League, commented Wednesday: "We just can't ignore" the wired-for-sound helmet fad which has struck the professional grid circuit.

Baby Habs To Compete With Pros

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Hockey League, geared for what shapes up as the tightest race in its 21-year history, will provide one of the most unusual innovations in hockey this season.

The Ottawa junior Canadiens will compete on a limited-schedule basis along with five professional clubs in founding out a six-team league. The baby Canucks, who called Montreal home last year, will also compete as amateurs in the Laurier Cup series against Ontario junior clubs.

As an "associate" member of the QHL, the Ottawa junior entry will have no official status in the league standing. But wins, losses and ties by other clubs in their 20 meetings with the juniors will be counted on the usual point system.

OPPOSE HABS TWICE

Each of the five pro clubs—Montreal Royals, Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, Quebec Aces, Chicoutimi Saguenays and Trois-Rivieres Lions—will play two home and two away games with the baby Habs, in addition to their own 64-game schedule.

Royals and Aces will launch the new season Thursday in Quebec City's President George Slater of the QHL is highly optimistic for a successful season, particularly with the addition of the colorful junior Canadians.

"There won't be any weak sisters in the league this year, if training camp reports are any indication of strength," he said. "I think we have more balance this year than we've had for many seasons. It won't be a cakewalk for any club."

Slater said there is greater fan interest "with the anticipation of fiercer competition, and season ticket sales thus far have shown a sharp increase over last year."

NOBBY ON WAIVERS

OTTAWA (CP)—Rough Rider football club officials Wednesday talked with quarterback Nobby Wirkowski who has been placed on waivers by Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals announced Wednesday night that Johnny Hopp has resigned as a coach and that coaches Terry Moore and Bill Posedel have agreed to 1957 contract terms.

NHL SEASON OPENS

Meeker Backs Leafs to Hilt

By The Canadian Press

There may be many guffaws, but coach Howie Meeker persists in his suggestion Toronto Maple Leafs could finish second in the National Hockey League race this season.

Few experts in the big league circuit give Leafs much of a chance of doing anything, let alone pushing aside such clubs as Detroit Red Wings or New York Rangers for second spot. Leaf critics base their predictions on the club's unimpressive showing in exhibition games. Leafs won four and tied twice in six engagements. Their last victory was a 6-0 decision over Buffalo Bisons of the American League. Still they showed little class.

However, the 31-year-old Meeker figures "young legs and enthusiasm" will make up for what Leafs lack in experience. He says: "Sure, we're going to have to get some more toughness out there on the ice, but I think we'll be all right."

He will see Leafs—one of the youngest clubs in league history—in action tonight when they open their 70-game schedule against the Bruins in Boston. In the only other game, Chicago Black Hawks meet the Wings at Detroit.

Right now the Wings and Rangers are rated as top contenders for second spot. They finished 2-3 last season. Rangers appear to have improved since then. Leafs finished fourth last year, but they have several rookies who could produce surprises.

Unitarian Official Speaks at College On October 24

Founder and executive director of the Unitarian Services Committee of Canada, Dr. Latta Hirschman, will visit Victoria on a cross-Canada speaking tour later this month.

She will speak on the relief organization's work to help war-devastated and under-developed countries at a public meeting in the Victoria College auditorium, Wednesday, Oct. 24, at 8 p.m. Her address will be illustrated with slides.

The meeting will be sponsored by the United Nations Association, Victoria branch.

Dr. Hirschman spoke here last in 1953 on behalf of her committee's "Barley for Korea" fund.

The structure, now being built, will have a white steel frame, partly glassed in. The tower will rise 74 feet and the building dimensions are 172 by 192 feet.—(CP Photo).

SOVIET TIMBERMEN CLAIM

Russ Forest Output Trebled in 9 Years

BLIND RIVER, Ont. (CP)—G. M. Orlov, Soviet minister of forest industries, said Wednesday Russia's forest industry has trebled production during the last nine years.

The aim of Soviet forestry officials and technicians was to achieve 100 per cent mechanization of the industry by the end of 1957.

Mr. Orlov and seven other Soviet timber officials are on a month-long tour of Canada. They are accompanied by D. S. Chuvahin, Russian ambassador to Canada. The tour was arranged by External Affairs Minister Pearson.

The visitors made what they called a "highly interesting" tour through the J. J. McFadden Lumber Co. sawmill here Wednesday.

Secretary-manager W. J. Leclair of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, who was in a group of Canadian timber officials who visited the U.S.S.R. last summer, said Russia is 100 years ahead of the United States and Canada in regeneration and research.

"There the whole program is under government control and exceedingly well organized."

BIG INDUSTRY
Exports of Britain's automotive industry were worth more than £200,000,000 in the first half of 1956.

GOING BACK TO SCHOOL was a treat for Harry Newton, Canadian Pacific Railway district passenger agent for Victoria, with pretty CPA ground hostess, Shirley Joe, of Vancouver, to help him with his lessons. Mr. Newton was one of 20 CPR employees from Canada and the United States, who attended Canadian Pacific Airline's transportation course last weekend. The study course was the first of its kind arranged between CPR and CPA. Purpose was to familiarize CPR personnel with CPA's operations. (CPAL Photo).

TOM UPHILL 'HOME' AGAIN

'House Needs Me More Than Ever'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Political Reporter

Breezy Tom Uphill returned triumphantly to Victoria Wednesday after winning the seat for Fernie, B.C., for the 11th term in a row.

"He was first elected in 1920 and is the oldest member of the legislature."

"I was surprised when I got in, but I would have been surprised if I hadn't," said the 82-year-old Labor member.

"Now that the Social Credit government has such a large majority, I feel I am more needed in the House than ever. We simply must try to put up an effective opposition."

"Have I ever thought of joining the Socreds? Never! It would be turning my back on the good folk who have supported me for so long. I am proud to be the only Labor member of the house as distinct from the CCF party."

KEEP RUNNING

Mr. Uphill won by slightly more than 150 votes and he plans to keep running until "I am old enough to come out here to Victoria and play golf."

Ever since the election he has been bombarded with congratulations by letter and wire from every corner of the province and beyond.

"It is most heartening to know that so many people wanted me back in the House. And I feel 40 years younger." As usual, Mr. Uphill has come to Victoria seeking concessions for his constituents, particularly the older people of Fernie. He does this about once a month all the year round and many pensions are adjusted as a result of his efforts.

"I shall be here about a week this time. It is always a pleasure to come here. Victoria is full of friendly people."

"TOM" TO ALL

Saying which, Mr. Uphill called a taxi to take him to the house of friends he has known for 30 years. Everyone calls him "Tom," including commissioners, taxi drivers, policemen, gardeners and even sales clerks.

He is almost a legend. Born in England, he came to Canada in 1906 and worked in B.C. as a coal miner. He was for many years mayor of Fernie.

Game Farm Land Price $18,000

Victoria council finance committee is recommending to council today that 21.4 acres of the old provincial game farm, owned by the city, be sold to Royal Oak Cemetery Board for $18,000.

The sale will be subject to approval also of the attorney-general, whose department supervises the operation of municipal cemeteries.

The decision was reached by the committee over earlier objections by Mayor Percy Scudrah, who disclosed he had been contacted by other interests anxious to obtain a large parcel of the cemetery lands with an offer of $35,000.

"The committee felt, however, the sale to the Royal Oak board would be in best municipal interests."

MORE BURNERS

Output of power-type oil burners in Canada reached 114,380 units in 1954, compared with 54,269 in 1949.

500 Electrical Workers Ready To Start Strike

CP and BUP Disputes
VANCOUVER — More than 500 Vancouver electrical workers demanding a wage boost of 60 cents an hour are poised to go on strike.

John Slingerland, business agent of Local 213, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said the strike deadline fell at noon Wednesday.

"We are in a position at any time after that to go on strike," he said.

Last week, the union threatened a walkout if negotiations with 13 contractors affected were not resumed. The deadline passed without further negotiation.

The wiremen rejected a conciliation award of 28 cents an hour spread over two years and voted 96 per cent in favor of a strike.

The present electrician's wage is $2.42 an hour.

2 BIG DEVELOPMENTS

VANCOUVER — Two major new developments, one of homes and the other of industries, are planned for the Greater Vancouver district in the near future.

Work will start next month on a 250-home project at Lions Bay, six miles north of Horseshoe Bay. The project will be five years in completion, and will cost $7,000,000.

The other major project is a 50-acre Coquitlam industrial site along the lines of the Annacis Island development.

ASK CIVIC MUSEUM

VANCOUVER — Four women's organizations in Vancouver are backing a proposal that a civic museum be built in Kitsilano as a centennial project.

MURDER CHARGE

KAMLOOPS — George Allan Thomson, 26, of Chase, was remanded to next Thursday when he appeared in police court late Wednesday charged with murder in connection with the death of Wilbur Nichols.

Nichols, 26, was shot at Magna Bay, 55 miles east of here, Tuesday night and died the following morning from a gunshot wound in the stomach.

SHOES, MILK TO GO UP

VANCOUVER — The price of milk is expected to go up by at least two cents a quart shortly, and there will be a 6 per cent increase in the cost of shoes.

A dairy spokesman says that most if not all Vancouver dairies are losing money on milk sales — the payments to producers have gone up and there may be wage increases in the near future.

Three B.C. shoe manufacturers say that increased cost of hides, freight and labor will mean a price boost of at least 6 per cent. The higher prices will show up in the stores next spring.

PARKING LOT FIRST

NEW WESTMINSTER — Mayor Fred Jackson thinks the city needs a downtown parking lot more than it needs a landing field for helicopters.

He expressed the preference during City Council's discussion of a recommendation that a space 200 by 400 feet be set aside for a heliport in the city centre.

NELSON MAN JAILED

NELSON — Stanley Smith, 32, has been sentenced to two years less a day in Oakalla prison farm after pleading guilty Sept. 24 to a charge of carrying an offensive weapon.

In addition he was fined $100 when he appeared in court here Tuesday and admitted possessing an unregistered revolver.

SORORITIES ASK FUNDS

VANCOUVER — The Pan-Hellenic Council, which represents nine University of B.C. sororities, has launched a drive for $80,000 to build an eight-room home on the campus.

TODD TRAINING SIX

Special Class Here For Blind Swimmers

A class for blind swimmers has just been started in Victoria.

A half dozen members of the Canadian Institute for the Blind here are being trained by YMCA swim instructor Jack Todd for one hour weekly in the Crystal Garden pool.

Idea behind the program is the need to assist the blind in recreation, which because of their handicap, is limited.

Famed swim coach Gus Ryder conducts a similar class in Toronto. Some years ago Olympic coach Archie McKinnon ran swim classes here for the blind at the Y.

Of the six in the current class, three can swim.

"They all have marvellous memories and get around remarkably well," said Mr. Todd, boatman in the classic Marilyn Bell conquest of Juan de Fuca.

Of the group, most are middle aged "or a little better," he said. Among those interested in the swim classes is internationally-known pianist Mary Munn, a resident of Victoria for the past few months.

The group trains from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. each Thursday. Classes will last just as long as the interest, and are expected to increase in numbers.

Holyoak Lake Reservoir Now Complete

CHEMAINUS — The Holyoak Lake phase of the new Chemainus water system has now been completed by contractors, but it will be some months before the reservoir is full and capable of supplementing the Miller Creek source of supply.

At Holyoak Lake, which will serve as a reservoir for the new system in case the rate of water consumption, or a period of prolonged drought should so demand, a long crib, rock fill dam has been erected at the southwest edge, while a concrete dam with a single sluice gate has been built at the outlet. This will raise the level of the lake from its normal 20 feet to a level of approximately 28 feet, providing a storage reservoir of 100,000,000 gallons of water.

Engineers estimate that the reservoir will supply Chemainus with 800,000 gallons of water a day through a 100-day drought, at the same time providing for a loss of 200,000 gallons a day before the water reaches the intake at Miller Creek.

Level of Holyoak Lake at the present time is extremely low, partly because of the dry summer and because contractors kept it that way while they worked on the dam. It will be some months before the reservoir is full and water running over the spillway.

For the outlet at the north end of the lake, the water from the reservoir will flow through a natural rock bed to Miller Creek.

Holyoak Lake itself is located in a pocket near the top of Mt. Brenton at an altitude of approximately 3,500 feet. The intake at Miller Creek is at the 400-foot level.

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP)—A little girl walked into the Sioux Falls post office to mail a package. M. T. Stark was on duty at the parcel post counter.

"Would you please wrap this for me?" the little girl asked.

Stark smiled and proceeded to wrap the package. Completing the job, he asked her to address it.

"I can't write. Will you address it for me?" she asked.

"Okay, little lady," Stark replied. "What's the address?"

"It's on a slip of paper inside."

Trying not to show any exasperation, Stark unwrapped the package, removed the slip of paper, re-wrapped and addressed the bundle.

"That will be 10 cents for mailing, please," he said, as he finished tying the knot.

"The money is in the package, mister."

FIRE PREVENTION TALK

City School on Fire In Worthwhile Cause

Explosions and flash fires in Central Junior High School gym Wednesday were attended by city fire department—but no one was hurt.

In fact, authorities hope the children packed into the tiered seating at the time benefited from what they saw.

The display of pyrotechnics was staged to highlight Fire Prevention Week. Speaker and demonstrator was Don Watt, fire prevention engineer for McMillan and Bloedel in B.C.

He was assisted by deputy fire chief James Bayliss of the city force.

Mr. Watt spoke on the chemistry of fire. He ignited vapor from charring paper to demonstrate the explosive potential of a room filled with smoke. See a small smoke coming from a keyhole and open the door.

"You do this and you'll be dead," he told the youngsters.

His experiments demonstrated the use of household baking soda in quelling flames, but he warned, "Call the fire department first."

Mr. Watt used three drops of gasoline to produce an explosion. He said it was more combustible than dynamite. Don't use it for cleaning.

He used four drops of ordinary lighter fluid to create five successive blasts, whipping a safety helmet to his head to further impress the youngsters.

The demonstrations are to be held at all city high and junior high schools.

Toronto Pressing Montreal Hard For 'Canada's Largest' Honors

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Toronto, Canada's second-largest metropolitan centre, is steadily moving closer in population to the country's biggest, Montreal.

This year's census-takers found that metropolitan Toronto, on the strength of phenomenal suburban growth, had increased by 20.6 per cent to 1,347,905 persons in the five years since it was counted at 1,117,470 in 1951.

Metropolitan Montreal grew 14 per cent to 1,395,327 persons to hold its first place, up from 1,395,400.

The figures were reported today by the Bureau of Statistics in an interim census report which also showed that Vancouver and Winnipeg still held third and fourth places among Canada's population centres at the count last June 1.

Today's report on the first national census ever taken on a five-year interval basis was incomplete. It did not show totals for such centres as Halifax, Quebec, London and Edmonton for which counts are not yet tabulated. Before this, the census has been taken every 10 years.

It highlighted, however, the dominant fact of Canadian city growth—the booming rise of the suburbs.

Montreal city proper grew 7.1 per cent in the five years to 1,094,448 from 1,021,520. But the rest of the metropolitan area leaped ahead by 32.9 per cent to 500,879 from 373,880.

The city of Toronto itself in fact lost population, down two per cent to 562,096 from 575,754. But the rest of metropolitan Toronto surged up by a massive 35.3 per cent to 685,809 from 441,716.

The picture of city growth being outstripped by suburbs is repeated in other metropolitan areas.

Vancouver city proper expanded five per cent to 361,952 from 344,833. Metropolitan Vancouver was up by 24 per cent to 658,813 from 530,728. However, the bureau this year expanded the boundaries of what it considered the metropolitan area—the new area had 558,019 persons five years ago—and thus the actual growth was 18.1 per cent. The suburban area alone gained 39.2 per cent.

Winnipeg city grew by 8.5 per cent to 256,683 from 235,710. The metropolitan area was up 15.7 per cent to 409,687 from 354,069.

Over 10 Times Speed of Sound Attained by New U.S. Rocket

LANGLEY FIELD, Va. (UP)

The U.S. Government announced today that it has launched the speediest rocket in history. It reached 6,864 miles an hour—more than 10 times the speed of sound.

With this scientific breakthrough, it said, the United States can plan construction of intercontinental ballistic missiles with a speed of 13,200 miles an hour and "space craft" that will achieve speeds of more than 20,000 miles an hour.

FEELING HEADACHY because of irregularity?

CHew FEEN-A-MINT

A modern medicinal laxative in chewing form, FEEN-A-MINT is pleasant to chew and gentle in its action, gentle enough for little children.

FEEN-A-MINT is a safe, dependable and thorough laxative and has a delicious candy-coating—refreshingly flavoured with mint. Why feel headachy in the mornings? Or off-color, sluggish and miserable anytime, because you need a laxative? Get FEEN-A-MINT at your druggist today and feel fine again.

FAMOUS CHEWING LAXATIVE

The fantastic speeds were disclosed by the national advisory committee for aeronautics, the government's top aviation research agency, during a semi-public inspection of its $100,000,000 laboratories. Government and industry officials were present.

200 MILES UP

The record speed of 6,864 miles an hour was reached by a four-stage rocket in a soaring flight over the Atlantic Ocean. Officials said several of the 35-foot 8-inch rockets went as high as 200 miles, within 50 miles of the altitude record for rockets.

NACA officials indicated that some rockets may have gone even faster than the publicly-disclosed record. They said the immediate goal of the research is to develop "airplanes" speedy enough to shrink the globe until any two points will be within a comfortable day's journey.

The research apparently is connected with the planned X-15 rocket plane which will be capable of flying at speeds of more than 4,000 miles an hour and at altitudes of more than 38 miles. It may be ready to fly in about two years.

NACA officials did not mention the X-15. But they said manned aircraft able to fly faster than 3,300 miles an hour—or more than five times the speed of sound—"appear within the realm of relatively early attainment."

The other immediate goal is the development of a ballistic missile that could span oceans in minutes without being destroyed by heat generated by friction. Surface heat on such missiles would rise to 20,000 degrees, far hotter than the sun's surface temperature.

Officials said the Sept. 27 crash of the X-2 rocket plane in California "inevitably will slow that rate of full-scale flight research" needed for development of the X-15. Before the crash the X-2 reached record speeds and heights of 1,900 miles an hour and 126,000 feet.

Skeleton Found in Algonquin Thought That of Famed Artist

TORONTO (CP)—An amateur artist who investigated an old rumor says a skeleton dug up in an unmarked Algonquin Park grave may be that of Tom Thomson, one of Canada's foremost painters, who died 39 years ago.

Official records say Thomson was buried near Owen Sound, Ont., where he spent his early childhood. However, other reports say the body was moved from its Algonquin Park burial place.

William Little, superintendent of the Ontario reformatory at nearby Brampton, said Tuesday night he and three other men found the bones 10 days ago in a wilderness grave on a hill overlooking picturesque Canoe Lake. There was a hole in the skull.

The 39-year-old painter was officially reported to have been drowned in the lake in 1917 and buried on a hilltop. The body later was ordered moved to Leith, near Owen Sound.

But Mr. Little said he had been told 25 years ago by a forest ranger that Thomson's body was never transferred from its original grave beside a big birch tree.

"There are people who say Thomson met with foul play," Mr. Little said. "We are not sure yet whether they are right or not. The attorney general's department is checking."

Mr. Little commented that ranger Mark Robinson, who investigated the painter's death, said the body was not moved to the church cemetery at Leith; that the undertaker hired to transfer the body took an empty coffin to the new grave.

MAY ANSWER RIDDLE

The Globe and Mail says in a copyright story that the find may "answer the riddle" of Thomson's death. It adds: "The death of Thomson... has been a mystery of the Canadian art world for nearly four decades."

Thomson's fame as an artist is widespread despite the fact he had been painting seriously for only three years before he died. Among his best-known paintings are The Jack Pine, The West Wind, The Northern River and Bateau. Much of his work was done in Algonquin Park, the terrain he loved the most.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

My Favorite Wife has threatened to send for a psychiatrist, and I fail to see why.

The reason she wants to send for a psychiatrist, she thinks there is something a little strange about a game Judy Boots Streak and I play when we are driving in the car. (Judy Boots Streak, better known as J.B., is the female type doggie who lives at our house.)

The game we play when we are driving in the car is called "Doggie."

It is played very much the same way the old game of "Beaver" used to be played.

In other words, J.B. and I keep our eyes peeled for members of the canine family.

If I spot a four-footed friend first, I point and cry "doggie."

Then J.B. barks at the doggie, and I score one point.

If, however, J.B. sees the doggie first, she barks, and then I point and cry "doggie."

And J.B. scores one point.

We usually play this game only in the morning, on the way down to work, and during my morning rounds.

At lunchtime, we add up the score, and the loser has to get lunch ready.

(Fortunately, I have always been the loser, so far. But as this is written, I am three points ahead. Wonder if J.B. is a good cook?)

Well, the reason I told you about the game J.B. and I play is, I wish you would call up My Favorite Wife and tell her there is no need to send for a psychiatrist.

Unless she feels J.B. needs one.

Speaking of psychiatrists, I see Peanuts has come to join us odd-balls on what is laughingly called the "local page."

If you are not already an addict of Peanuts, I commend him—and his pals—to your earnest attention.

Personally, I found Peanuts a little like olives—rather hard to get used to.

But once you become a Peanuts addict, you will find he grows on you daily.

Welcome, Peanuts, to this page.

It is refreshing to have something funny on it for a change.

Also, the constituents will now understand what Our Very Own Candidates meant when they said: "Vote for Peanuts, not Politics."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Fire in B.C. Forest Products presto-log division at 9:14 p.m. Wednesday caused little damage and was extinguished by plant workers before city firemen arrived.

Eleven feet of steel fence were torn out in an auto mishap on Dallas early Wednesday when the car driven by Howard George Abercrombie, 947 Meares, made like a bulldozer.

Police said Abercrombie was driving west on Dallas and failed to make a turn at Clover Point. His car mounted a traffic island, bounced off a lamp standard and plowed into the new fence, resulting in extensive damage.

The driver was summoned on a careless driving charge.

George Lee, 759 Queen, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and ordered to pay $46.42 repair costs when charged in city court today with willful damage to a window at Dart Con Club, 557 Fisgard, Oct. 4.

Earlier, he had pleaded not guilty to the charge but changed his plea today.

Lee admitted kicking the window out after having an argument with the proprietor who ejected Lee into the street. Lee said he intended to kick the proprietor, but missed, and his foot went through the glass.

A Central Saanich juvenile, Raymond Budynski, 17, pleaded guilty in city court today to theft of $134.65 in collections made by him for his employer, Victoria Box and Paper Ltd. between Aug. 24 and Sept. 28.

He was transferred from juvenile court to open police court to face the charge.

As a driver-collector he was responsible for turning over cash by a certain time, which he failed to do.

Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded him for sentence later.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Michael Danchuk, 2518 Fernwood, $35 for careless driving. John Nylander, 1214 Lockley, $50 for driving while disqualified.

Salk for Public Arriving in City

Commercial Salk vaccine for over-the-counter sale by city druggists was expected to arrive in Victoria today.

The anti-polio vaccine will only be sold with a doctor's prescription.

About 6,000 vials, each containing enough vaccine to provide initial injections for three persons, arrived Wednesday in Vancouver from a United States supply house.

Victoria druggists will draw on the Vancouver shipment. According to local pharmacy authorities, "there will be a fair supply."

The vaccine is supplied by the Ely Lilly Company of Indianapolis. All Salk vaccine previously used in this area (for school children's free inoculation by health departments) was made at Connaught Laboratories in Toronto, expressly for Canadian health departments.

List price for a vial is $12. A vial should be used for injection of three persons when it is opened. Second and third doses would require new prescriptions and purchase of other vials, a city druggist explained.

The initial injection would be of one cc of the vaccine followed by another one cc in four to six weeks. A third dose of one cc is recommended seven to 10 months after the second injection.

Some local druggists have waiting lists for the vaccine, started almost two years ago when it was first removed from commercial supplies would be available.

In March this year the city obtained a grant of $454,651. The grant for 1957, based on figures released today, would be $466,072.

Oakalla, Boys School Terms For Boat-Stealing Youths

Sentences up to two years were imposed on two Victoria teen-agers in Oak Bay and Sidney courts Wednesday on conviction for theft of a car and an inboard motor boat on Oct. 1.

The boys faced charges in Oak Bay juvenile court, and each were given two-year terms at Brannan Lake boys' industrial school for stealing the boat in which they made their way across Juan de Fuca Strait.

They were turned over to Sidney juvenile court to face the car theft charge and the older of the two was transferred to THWAITED.

Both had been on probation for an offence committed at Nanaimo when they stole a car in Victoria and drove to Sidney, where they planned to steal a boat, but were thwarted when the car stalled on Swartz Bay Road.

They stole a second car, property of Sidney village commissioner Herbert Bradley, and drove it to Oak Bay boathouse, where they took a 16-foot inboard and rifled a cabin cruiser of supplies and equipment.

Landing about five miles from Port Angeles, Wash., the pair took a third car which they drove to Yakima, Wash., where local police stopped them and held them for Oak Bay police.

Record Potato Crop Harvested By V.I. Farms

Vancouver Island is harvesting the biggest potato crop in history.

Close to 7,000 tons will be dug up when the last hill has been turned over.

From October 1, potatoes available for retailers totalled as much as in the entire season last year.

Potatoes are grown heavily from Victoria to Courtenay. Nevertheless, production still accounts for only about 65 per cent of total potato requirements on the Island. The difference is brought in from Washington, Oregon and California.

Price to the farmer is improved this year. He will net about $39 a ton for top variety with cost to the wholesaler $50 a ton.

Price to the consumer will not be affected. At present it's about $2.95 for a 100-pound sack.

City to Protest Census Figures

Count Is Far Too Low, Claim Scurrah, Wyatt

Victoria city will protest new census figures released by Ottawa today.

Mayor Percy Scurrah and city manager C. C. Wyatt believe Victoria's population is 55,000 rather than the 53,088 listed by the federal bureau of statistics.

Form of the protest is not decided.

"It will depend on what council wants to do," said Mr. Wyatt.

He indicated it was possible council would ask a census be taken by city employees at assessment time to strengthen the argument that the federal assessment is in error.

"I don't think it is correct by any means," said Mayor Scurrah.

The new census figures show an increase in Victoria of only 1,757 over the 1951 census figure of 51,331.

Mr. Wyatt has compiled figures showing that in the last five years there were 13,661 births in the city and only 7,453 deaths.

This would indicate a population increase of 6,208, unless that number of people moved from the city.

Building figures over the same period indicate that more people came here to live. New residences valued at $9,600,000 were constructed.

OVER 2,000

"From our analysis there have been more than 2,000 individual living units developed in the five-year period," said Mr. Wyatt.

"At an average of three persons per unit, the resultant figure of 6,000 agrees with the estimate based on births minus deaths. It's too much of a coincidence."

Meanwhile, city comptroller Dennis A. Young was happy with the increase of 1,757 indicated today. He felt it would mean an increase of $11,420 in provincial per capita grants next year.

Under the present provincial grant system the government pays the city $16 per capita for the first 3,500 of population; $12 for the next 4,500; $8 for the next 42,000 and $6.50 per head for the population over 50,000.

In March this year the city obtained a grant of $454,651. The grant for 1957, based on figures released today, would be $466,072.

Woman Claims She Was Raped At Beaver Lake

A 19-year-old woman claimed in Criminal Assize Court today she was attacked at Beaver Lake by John Claude Wilkie of Saanich, who is facing trial before a 12-man jury on a charge of rape.

Wilkie, a 22-year-old laborer, is accused of raping the woman following a dance in downtown Victoria on June 17.

The trial opened before Mr. Justice Harold McInnes. Crown counsel is A. deB. McPhillips, while James Proudfoot is defending Wilkie.

The woman said she met Wilkie at a dance and he drove her in his car to Beaver Lake on the way to her home.

She said Wilkie threw her on the ground when she made a move to leave him and placed his hand over her mouth to prevent her from screaming.

The case is continuing.

Jury members serving on the trial are Q. W. Jolly, H. J. Kerrigan, Harold Morton, A. B. Cownden, A. B. Tripp, R. S. Fisher, J. S. Houston, W. J. Colvin, A. R. Emery, R. J. Wray, J. A. Utley, and Francis C. Nelson.

Nanaimo's Growth Leads All of Island

Nanaimo leads Vancouver Island in the percentage of population increase over the period 1951 to 1956.

Figures released today by the Federal Bureau of Statistics show a rise of almost 75 per cent.

In 1951 Nanaimo contained a population of 7,196. The census conducted this spring counted 12,570 persons.

(Since the 1951 census Nanaimo extended her boundaries to almost double the city area.)

Port Alberni increased almost 30 per cent in population in the same period, from 7,845 to 10,548. Campbell River jumped from 1,986 to 3,006, up 52 per cent.

IS PER CENT BOOST

Greater Victoria increased from 104,303 to 123,033—a boost of almost 18 per cent.

Other B.C. points recorded the following increases: Cranbrook, 4,459 from 3,621; Kelowna, 8,924 from 8,517; Penticton, 11,790 from 10,548; Prince Rupert, 10,381 from 8,546; Revelstoke, 3,385 from 2,917; Rossland, 4,315 from 4,604; Trail 11,319 from 11,430; Vernon, 8,874 from 7,822; Dawson Creek, 7,407 from 3,589; Fort St. John, 1,883 from 884; North Kamloops, 4,351 from 1,970; Kitimat district municipality, 8,759 (not incorporated in 1951); Langley district municipality, 12,281 from 12,267; Maple Ridge district municipality, 12,432 from 9,891.

'Must Have Been Drunk' Driver Told Police

Six traffic and parking convictions against Charles McMillan, Drake Hotel, brought fines totaling $67.50 in city police court today.

He pleaded guilty to careless driving, resulting in a collision causing $210 total damage to his car and a steel fence at First United Church, Quadra at Balmoral, on Sept. 11, and was fined $40.

McMillan left the scene of the accident and when questioned later by police said he didn't remember the crash and that he "must have been drunk."

He was fined $10 for failing to report an accident in which there is more than $100 damage, $10 for failing to notify the motor vehicles branch of a change of address, and $2.50 each on three overparking charges.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—If I was to elope and get married would it be illegal for me to have the ceremony again at a later date?—T.M.

A.—This column lacks space to undertake a discussion in detail of the marriage act of B.C., or of the force of law and custom. Vide also the column's basic rule, that it will not answer legal questions. You may read the B.C. Marriage Act for yourself in Chapter 301 of the Revised Statutes of British Columbia, 1948, which you may reinforce by having a legal authority review the decisions which have been given under it by the courts. You may find the desired volume in the Provincial Library.

Q.—Some time ago "Ask The Times" gave the date of the Five Sisters' Block fire in Victoria. Will you please repeat it, as I lost my clipping?—R.D.

A.—That destructive fire occurred almost exactly 46 years ago. It was in October, 1910.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, a column to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Japanese Lingo Spouted Over RCMP Radios Here

Police radio calls often sound like Japanese to those unfamiliar with message routine, but Wednesday RCMP receivers in Victoria and up-Island centres actually began spouting Japanese chatter.

Furthermore, Island mounties were receiving police calls from city and state police in South Carolina, distinctly and consistently.

Reason was a freak atmospheric condition similar to the rare occasions when Victoria TV viewers pick up programs originating in southwestern United States.

The Japanese talk came from fishing boats in the Pacific, and for a time was somewhat disconcerting to policemen accustomed to their own terse lingo in radiograms from Victoria to patrol cars, subdivisions and detachments on the Island.

Police said not only were they able to hear their South Carolinian counterparts' messages in typical southern drawl, but the U.S. police could receive RCMP messages just as clearly.

Old English fencing he imported pleases R. H. B. Kerr.

IT'S A WHAT? ... A WATTLE

Imported Fence Traffic-Stopper

By DINAH KERR

What's a wattle?

On Arbutus Road it's a traffic stopper and in the hearts of many Englishmen it's a nostalgic reminder of the Old Country, says R. H. B. Kerr.

Since early spring, the wattle—split hazelwood woven into "hurdles"—has fenced his home at 2282 Arbutus Road.

You've never heard of a hurdle?

On this enlightened continent, athletes jump over it. In England it's still used to fence sheep in a pasture. The dictionary defines it as "a portable rectangular frame strengthened with wooden bars for a temporary fence."

Mr. and Mrs. Kerr ran into the hurdles on a trip to England last year.

When it came time to tear down the wire fence in front of their home, they decided to order hazel wattle hurdles from England as a replacement.

And ever since, says Mr. Kerr, "all kinds of people have been phoning to ask where we got them."

"SHEER NOSTALGIA"

"One day," says Mrs. Kerr, "we had eight calls. It was rather pathetic. So many called from sheer nostalgia."

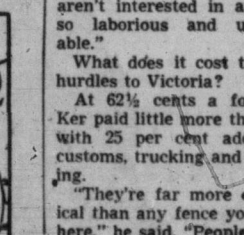

Traffic has slowed to a crawl outside their home and while the fence was being erected "there were several minor motor accidents on the road."

The old craftsmen who weave hurdles outdoors and by hand are slowly dying out, Mr. Kerr said. "Young boys aren't interested in anything so laborious and unprofitable."

What does it cost to bring hurdles to Victoria?

At 62½ cents a foot, Mr. Kerr paid little more than $250 with 25 per cent added for customs, trucking and unloading.

"They're far more economical than any fence you'd buy here," he said. "People should

All sorts of things caught my eye while I was in town. Things for your house, for gifts, for the office—they're all arriving to tempt you shoppers. Something a little different, a bit special, is the dainty English china thimble that comes boxed, ready for gift time. Floral print on white china gives it a delicate look, but you will see that it is really usable. The price is $2.75.

Brass trivets especially for over-sized dishes have been in demand, and are now available in a wonderful variety of shapes. To be used on the dinner table, or as ornaments for kitchen or rumpus room, these trivets are priced from $2.50 to $3.95.

For your purse — a jeweled perfume vial. A feminine gift, these imported perfume bottles come in all shapes and sizes covered with a gold filigree. Stones, costume jewels and pearls form a lavish casing for the bottles topped with jeweled stoppers. There's a large selection and all at $1.

Couple Wed In Candlelit Ceremony

Harvest arrangements of fruit, vegetables and autumn-tinted flowers decorated Metropolitan United Church for the candlelit service which united in marriage Isabella Florence Allan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Allan, Vancouver, with Barry Robert Moreland, HMCS Oshawa, Victoria, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Moreland, Calgary, Alta. Dr. F. E. H. James conducted the wedding.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ankle-length gown of white nylon net and lace over white satin, having a lace and net neplum with pearl and mother of pearl sequin trimmed collar. Her lace bolero style jacket had lily point sleeves and her fingertip veil was held by a headress trimmed to match the collar of her gown. Yellow roses and bronze chrysanthemums formed the bridal bouquet.

Miss Peggy Schoen was the bride's attendant, wearing a gown of yellow nylon with butterfly applique design on bodice and neckline of the skirt. The strapless bodice was topped with a net stole and she carried a cascade bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

Best man was Bill Schick of Winnipeg, Man., and ushers were Robert Esplen and Kenneth Wardell, Victoria.

Toast to the bride was proposed by E. G. Fletcher, Trail, B.C., at a reception in the Orange Hall.

A buffet supper was served and a three-tier wedding cake decorated with pale yellow roses and silver leaves centred the bridal table. The cake was surrounded by yellow tulie, white chrysanthemums and white candles.

Mr. and Mrs. Moreland will live at 1554 Gladstone Avenue.

Only six months old, Mickey is a collie-Labrador cross, black and white, loves kids. He's for adoption only because of strength of the pack to 39 boys. Sixers Brian Bennett and Peter Haegart received their swimmers' badge. District Cubmaster Harry Ward paid the pack a visit.

HE GIVES AWAY
GRAND PRIZES.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Tonia Felix, 10, of Berkeley, Calif., for her question:

What Is Philosophy?

Some weeks ago, Andy wrote about a teacher of ancient Greece named Aristotle. To many of us, the name of Aristotle comes to mind as one of the greatest of philosophers. But Aristotle wrote on a number of widely different subjects, all of which he considered philosophy. That word is coined from two Greek words meaning love and wisdom. To Aristotle, philosophy was the love of wisdom.

That certain great thinkers have done all this before him. What he loves most, this lover of wisdom, is to check his own best thoughts with the thoughts of the world's greatest philosophers.

Andy sends a Hammond International Wild Globe to Carol Novack, age eight, of Rockaway Beach, N.Y., for her question:

In that meaning of the word, you are a philosopher every time you want to ask Andy a question. You would love to have some more wisdom, knowledge or information about something or other. However, since Aristotle's day, the word philosophy has somewhat changed its meaning. Most people are agreed that the word is important to the master study of all studies. It begins with your wondering and wanting to know about yourself, other people, the world and what makes it work. Certainly Andy agrees that that kind of curiosity is the greatest of all riches anyone can possess.

If you think about it, you will see that it leads you through the world of the things you are interested in. The things you are curious about. This helps you to learn, enjoy things and form opinions. As you learn about something, you cannot help wanting to know more about it and the whole world. So, you see, everyone is a philosopher, whether he knows it or not.

Situation Critical Is Monty's Warning

LONDON (Reuters) — Field Marshal Earl Montgomery Wednesday called upon the free world to re-organize its entire defence system and draw up a streamlined master plan immediately "for the fight against communism."

Montgomery, deputy supreme Allied commander in Europe, said the situation is "critical." The time has come, he said, to establish a single fighting service under one supreme director able to take prompt decisions in a nuclear world war.

Britain's Second World War military chief was delivering a lecture on "the panorama of warfare in a nuclear age" at the Royal United Services Institute in London.

He condemned what he called the present "complicated mobilization machinery of the NATO countries" and said he does not believe it would work in nuclear war.

Providing the weapons the army really needs, that is, short-range missiles, the guns and howitzers with small-yield atomic heads.

He said the present "complicated mobilization machinery of the NATO countries" and said he does not believe it would work in nuclear war.

PLAN OR DRIFT
"I believe the situation today is critical," he said. "Either we plan realistically for the future and survive a nuclear war—or we drift along, planning from year to year and using ad hoc methods and end in disaster."

Instead of wasting effort on developing tactical air forces, "we should devote this effort to producing a nuclear war-fighting force."

City Woman Wins Appeal Against Cheque Conviction

A city police court conviction of passing a forged cheque against 21-year-old Trishia G. Thorn of Victoria, was quashed by the criminal division of the B.C. Court of Appeal sitting in Vancouver.

Mrs. Thorn launched the appeal against the conviction after Magistrate H. C. Hall found her guilty of passing a forged cheque for the sum of $22 at a grocery store on February 24.

The magistrate gave her a suspended sentence in view of her youth.

James Proudfoot, counsel for Mrs. Thorn, won the appeal mainly on the grounds the Crown failed to identify Mrs. Thorn as the person who passed the forged cheque.

Mrs. Thorn denied at the trial she had ever been in the store or had passed a cheque.

Firemen Study Hotel
Two Hours Too Early

COLFAX, Wash. (AP)—The volunteer fire department held its regular weekly meeting Wednesday night and, as is custom, picked out a building in town to study for fire-fighting purposes—this time the Colfax Hotel. Two hours after the meeting a fire broke out in the hotel basement and destroyed the structure with loss estimated at $100,000.

Washington Primary Jolted Republicans

This is the third of a series of election campaign snapshots by AP political reporters who are surveying sentiment in key states across the U.S.

WASHINGTON
SEATTLE (AP)—From the look of things, it's not going to take many votes to tilt the outcome of the presidential race in Washington.

What happened here Sept. 11 jolted the Republicans. The state primary that day pointed to a Democratic trend.

A swing through the Pacific Northwest gives the impression that President Eisenhower is stronger in Oregon than in Washington; that if Adlai Stevenson wins any of the three coastal states, it's most likely to be Washington.

LABOR VOTE
Democratic optimism is based in part on the prospect of an unusually heavy organized labor turnout Nov. 6. Half of the state's 1,400,000 voters are clustered in the industrial sector around Everett, Tacoma and Seattle.

Then the party holds great expectations of pulling in discontented farmers. In the senatorial primary, every major agricultural area—in fact, 38 of the 39 counties—voted Democratic.

KENTUCKY
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky Democrats are feuding again and unless the signs change the feud may hand over the state's 10 electoral votes to President Eisenhower and a Senate seat to the Republicans.

At this point, four weeks before the balloting, Eisenhower appears to have advantages continued personal popularity, general Kentucky prosperity and strong support among women and youthful voters.

ADLAI AHEAD
Without doubt, this situation is contributing to a belief among political observers that Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, has climbed ahead of Eisenhower for this border state's electoral votes.

Four years ago, Eisenhower—with the help of an estimated 105,000 Democratic votes—defeated Stevenson by a narrow margin of 29,000.

SHARP ATTACK on President Eisenhower was made Wednesday night at Portland, Oregon, by Democratic presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson. He accused the Eisenhower administration of representing only "the rich and the powerful." He said the administration is "indifferent" toward the common man. Stevenson is pictured above acknowledging cheers from hotel balcony. The hole in the large shoe sign has a "Walking With Adlai" message.

Recorded Concerts Start At Art Gallery Tonight

First of the winter season's high fidelity concerts arranged by the Recorded Music Society and the Philharmonia orchestra will perform Schumann's A minor Piano Concerto, Von Karajan conducting.

A genuine collectors' item will conclude the concert. This is the latest recording of Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony which has been receiving rave notices from European critics. It is conducted by Otto von Klemperer.

All interested music lovers may attend this concert.

Doctors Watch Indians Use Peyote, Narcotic-Type Drug

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (AP)—A group of doctors from Weyburn and North Battleford hospitals watched as 25 Stoney Indians used a drug known as peyote in a native religious ceremony here.

The drug, made from the mesquite cactus plant of the south-central United States, causes a form of drug hypnosis, resulting in heightening of perception and illusions of physical grandeur.

It has been compared to narcotic drugs in its effects, but it is not recognized as such by police and its importation and use are legal.

Tito Army Chiefs End Long Feud With Russians

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UP)—Yugoslav army leaders left by air for Russia yesterday on a two-week "friendship visit"—their first contact with the Soviet army since President Tito broke with the Kremlin in 1948.

As the army officers left here, Moscow announced that 10 leaders of the Komsomol youth organization are on the way to Belgrade to repay a visit that Yugoslav youth leaders paid to Moscow in April.

Informed observers commented that the exchange of delegations underscores the "shrinking of past differences" between Yugoslavia and Russia, highlighted last week by Tito's Yalta conference with top Soviet leaders.

Court Rejects Plea for Death

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The California Supreme Court has rejected, without comment, the plea of Gilbert P. Collie, 76, convicted "gorilla man" slayer, that he be executed to end "this living death" in prison. The court turned down Collie's self-composed petition asking that he be hanged or set free after serving 24 years of a life term.

Driving Schools Control Approved

TORONTO (CP)—A by-law to control driving schools was approved Wednesday by the metropolitan Toronto licensing commission. It will take effect Jan. 1, 1957.

Argentina Tightens Hold on Opposition

BUENOS AIRES (CP)—Communist and right-wing totalitarian organizations in Argentina have been brought under strict government control by a decree issued Wednesday after a meeting at government house attended by President Pedro Aramburu. According to the preamble, the decree covers "all organizations which openly or under disguise respond to ideals opposed to democratic freedom and to the republican system."

SECULARIZATION HIT

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Labor member of the British Parliament said Wednesday night that "secularization" in Canada and the United States is a matter for concern.

"It threatens to strident the growing revival of attendance in churches," said George Thomas, MP and a Methodist lay minister in his native Cardiff, Wales. He is on a 10-week tour sponsored by the Society of Friends (Quakers).

LOCAL COURSE FIRST IN CANADA

United Church Leaders Watching
Victoria's Christian Leader Plan

United Churches across Canada are watching the progress of the nation's first Christian leadership courses underway here.

Close to 150 persons have registered for the "Training Course for Christian Service," said Rev. Douglas Pilkey, chairman of the Victoria Committee for Christian Education of the United Church.

If the courses are successful here, other United Churches may imitate them, he said.

Four courses, each of eight lectures, are being offered at First United and Metropolitan United churches.

"Theology and Doctrine," is the title of a course held the first Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in First United Church. Lecturer is Rev. A. I. Higgins.

A course on "Teaching Techniques, Methods and Material" given by Mr. Pilkey and teacher education professors under Neil Swainson, Victoria College, will be held at 8:30 the same night.

"History of the Christian Church," given by Rev. Laura

Butler, begins at Metropolitan United Church Monday at 7:30 p.m., followed at 8:30 by a course on "Advanced Teaching Methods," by Prof. A. W. Johns of Victoria College.

These two courses will continue at the same times on the first Monday of every month.

"The growing need for improved adult education for Christian living and service has given rise to an evangelistic move in our church," said Rev. Pilkey. "These courses are offered as a contribution to meet this need."

Area's Count Up 18%

123,033 Listed
In Gr. Victoria

(See also Page 21)
Greater Victoria has had an 18 per cent rise in population since 1951.

Metropolitan area population now stands at 123,033 compared to 104,303 five years ago, according to Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures released at Ottawa today.

The census division, reporting on the Canada-wide nose-count conducted last spring, said Victoria city has 1,757 more people than in 1951, indicating the fastest increase in growth belongs to the other municipalities in the area. New city population is 53,088.

No breakdown of populations was given yet for Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt. It is thought the overall total would also include part of the adjoining provincial unorganized area.

Recently preliminary census figures gave Victoria 52,935, Saanich about 38,500 and Oak Bay 14,652. Other tentative figures were not available.

CONCIDE

The bureau extended the metropolitan boundaries of Victoria for its own purposes, to take advantage of suburban out-thrusts and partly to have census boundaries coincide with municipal boundaries.

The trend of suburban growth outstripping the city was repeated at Vancouver, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Hamilton, Toronto and Windsor.

In the Vancouver area, New Westminster's population now is 31,357, compared to 28,639 in 1951; Burnaby municipal district 33,270 (58,376); Coquitlam municipal district 20,126 (15,697); Surrey municipal district 48,877 (33,670); West Vancouver municipal district 19,017 (13,990).

New Westminster gained 9.5 per cent; Burnaby 42.7 per cent; Coquitlam 21.8 per cent; Surrey 45.2 per cent and West Vancouver 36 per cent.

Tunnel Workers' Dicker Started

Negotiations are reported underway today between contractors and the striking Tunnel and Rockworkers Union that would end a lengthy strike on major construction projects in British Columbia.

While pickets are still on at the Upper Campbell and Ladore hydro projects of the B.C. Power Commission, 535 of the 776 union men on the jobs, not members of the rockworkers' union, are back at work today after passing the pickets.

At Ladore, 260 of the 285-man complement are back on the job. The newly-formed independent union tied up about 2,000 workers in B.C. during the four-week strike. Projects affected by the strike include the $20,000,000 hydro development on Upper Campbell River; an $8,000,000 hydro development at Cheakamus, and the $2,640,000 project to remove Ripple Rock from Seymour Narrows.

The rockworkers walked out after a split with the hod carriers over contracts signed by International Hod Carrier representatives for B.C. workers.

Chinese Told To Oust Reds

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Chew Swee Kee, Singapore's minister of education, today told the principals of Chinese high schools here to clear out the thousands of rebellious left-wing students now "squatting" on school grounds, or the government would take action.

About 4,000 Chinese students Wednesday night besieged the grounds of three Chinese high schools in protest against the Singapore government's expulsion of 145 students and two teachers for alleged Communist activities.

ROUNDUP TIME FOR CARS HUBCAPS NOW BRANDED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Auto hubcaps, like calves, are going to be branded in this part of the West, says the Los Angeles police commission.

The commission Wednesday approved a plan to stamp hubcaps with tiny licence numbers. This would help reduce the $1,000-a-day loss to car strippers, the auto theft detail said.

Two Years in Jail For Grave Raider

GOOD GRIEF! PEANUTS HAS MOVED TO PAGE 21

Few comics in recent years have so quickly won favor as the Times' "Peanuts."

Admiration for Charlie Brown, Linus, Lucy and the dog Snoopy has swept across North America, captivating the hearts of young and old alike.

Artist Charles Schulz recently won the acclaim of his fellow cartoonists with an award for creation of "Best comic strip of the year."

Hong Kong Riot Takes 30 Lives

HONG KONG (CP)—Heavy loss of life was reported today in clashes between right and left wing workers in the industrial mainland village of Tsun Wan, but an estimate of 100 dead was scaled down in a later report by the Hong Kong government.

The new estimate placed the toll at 30 dead in Tsun Wan and 12 dead in the mainland suburb of Kowloon.

The Tsun Wan battle was reported to have started when pro-Nationalists wrecked the offices of two pro-Communist labor unions.

Authorities said that unlike the previous battle, the new casualties were caused entirely by fighting between the two factions with neither police nor British troops involved.

The bloody battle began when the supporters of Nationalist China broke into the two union offices, seized the furniture and archives and set them ablaze. Troops later moved in and took control of the entire area.

British troops and police battled with riot guns, bayonets and tear gas against the frenzied mobs rioting and pillaging on Kowloon.

Troops Charge with Fixed Bayonets

Two Chinese were killed when police opened fire on a mob at one of Kowloon's main intersections. Another Chinese in a mob trying to storm the Kowloon police headquarters was killed by a direct hit from a tear gas gun.

Two Chinese were bayoneted and an eight-year-old Chinese boy received minor injuries in the battle at the police station, which lasted 45 minutes before troops scattered the crowd.

Spotter planes hovered overhead as the British Tomnies charged with fixed bayonets against the furious thousands trying to overrun the building. The whump of continuously exploding tear gas grenades mingled with the shouts and screams of the crowd.

The rioting began Wednesday, finally died down at dawn, then erupted again about noon in the Sham Shui Po sector of northwest Kowloon.

The riots began near a government-owned tenement where refugees from Communist China demanded to paste Chinese Nationalist flags to celebrate Oct. 10—national day of the Nationalists. A Chinese Foreigners, leftists and their property, and police stations were the chief targets of the mob. There was also considerable indiscriminate looting and pillaging.

Hundreds of persons were injured, including a Swiss couple badly burned when a mob set fire to their taxi. The flames incinerated the taxi driver.

Some of the mobs stopped cars and extorted money from the occupants.

At dusk, the troops and police appeared to be slowly bringing the mobs under control. Authorities ordered a curfew for Kowloon's 1,500,000 people from 7:30 p.m. to 10 a.m., and said it might be extended if necessary. The order did not apply to Hong Kong Island itself, where 1,000,000 persons live. The island—Victoria—remained free of trouble.

housing official refused permission. His house was sacked and his furniture was burned. This touched off a full-fledged riot.

The dramatic incident, which took place in Greenwood Cemetery on the night of Sunday, Sept. 23, was outlined by Port Alberni lawyer Bob Ohs, appearing for the Crown.

"An argument started between the boys and the two girls sitting with them in a parked car at Greenwood Cemetery over Elvis Presley," he said.

"There was evidence of liquor, it is true, and there was certainly bravado but they knew what they were doing. Their intention was to deposit the casket at Third and Argyle (main intersection at Port Alberni), but as the corpse appeared over the top of the grave they became frightened and drove away."

"Liquor may have instilled them with bravado but they were sober enough to eat food, participate in physical exercise and drive a car."

The retesting of a three-year-old gas development well in the Fort St. John area by Pacific Petroleum Ltd. and associates ended with the discovery of one of British Columbia's best oil producers.

The well, Fort St. John No. 9, is B.C.'s fifth commercial oil producer from the Triassic zone. The find is making about 250 barrels a day flowing through a quarter-inch choke from 11 feet of sand 222.

Another well, Pacific Fort St. John No. 45, was reported making 35 to 45 barrels a day of 42.5 degree gravity oil from a 14-foot dolomite bed. Interest in this well is split 23 per cent each to Pacific, Peace River Natural Gas and Sunray Oil Corporation, 25 per cent to Permo Gas and Oil and six per cent to Canadian Atlantic.

Fort St. John Nos. 9 and 45 belong to Pacific Petroleum. Three others in the Boundary Lake area, 35 miles north and east of Fort St. John, are owned by Northern Footfalls Agreement, a syndicate consisting of Shell, Texaco, Mobil Oil and British American.

Nelson Sentenced; Mother in Tears

(Special to the Times)

ALBERNI — William Harold Nelson, 18, one of four youths charged with causing an indignity to a dead human body, today was sentenced to two years less one day definite and two years less one day indeterminate.

He will serve his term in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla Prison Farm in Burnaby.

Two of his companions, Alma Doreen Lochner, 19, and David Windsor Ferguson, 19, are scheduled to appear in police court at Alberni Friday to face similar charges.

The third, Jean Gibson, 17-year-old waitress, was remanded Wednesday to appear in police court Oct. 18. She has been transferred from juvenile court to open court.

Pale and wearing a pink sweater, grey pants and suede shoes, Nelson pleaded guilty to the charge.

He received his sentence with apparent emotion. His parents were seated in the front row of the courtroom, close to the box. His mother wept quietly as the sentence was pronounced.

'Just Prank to Attract Attention'

Earlier in the trial Ron MacIsaac, Nanaimo lawyer, asked Magistrate Thomas Patterson for leniency in the sentence.

"This is not so much a crime as a prank," he said. "This kind of thing goes on among university students all the time and people call it the boisterousness of youth."

"This act was the act of a mind troubled with alcohol. It was just a prank to attract attention. All human beings at some time or another have to feel important to themselves and that is what this young boy was trying to do."

He maintained that the same case six months from now would be treated as a "prank of youth."

"Terrible punishment has already been visited upon this young man. He did something to attract attention and the prank backfired."

"He is now a leper in this community and any sentence will just be aftermath."

The dramatic incident, which took place in Greenwood Cemetery on the night of Sunday, Sept. 23, was outlined by Port Alberni lawyer Bob Ohs, appearing for the Crown.

CBC Ready to Quit TV Monopoly in Big Cities If Certain Conditions Met, Dunton Tells Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC board chairman A. D. Dunton said today he feels the time has come for abandonment of the government's single-channel television policy provided certain conditions are met.

He told the Royal Commission on Broadcasting one condition should be that in areas with two TV stations one should be a CBC station.

He indicated he thinks privately-owned stations at two-station points should meet certain requirements, including those of program standards and Canadian content in their broadcasting.

There should be sharing of the job carrying the CBC's national TV service, now carried by CBC and private TV stations. There would have to be co-operation between them.

Mr. Dunton's statement was the first clear declaration that the CBC thinks the government's single-channel policy, in effect since TV broadcasting began in Canada in 1952, should be changed.

He said second TV stations would be economically feasible in several centres. The CBC would like to see their development where they could be supported economically. He added he would expect the public system would have to supply some of their programs.

The federal government's policy now is to permit only one TV station in each viewing area, with six major cities reserved for the CBC alone.

In response to questions from commission chairman R. M. Fowler, Mr. Dunton said he would guess second stations now would be economically

FREAK ACCIDENT

Driverless Car Hit Victim Many Times

CHESTERVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The body of a 70-year-old hired man, Clarence Algure, was found on a farm near here Wednesday night, lying in a field where a driverless car was circling around backwards, colliding with him on each circuit.

Nearly unconscious was William Servage, 62, owner of the farm where Algure worked. He suffered face lacerations, a crushed chest and a broken arm. He was taken to hospital, where he was said today to be in critical condition.

Neighbors Gerald Gibbons and Charles Flegg discovered the freak fatality, police said. The car, a 1948 model, had its throttle jammed open and gears locked in reverse.

The car was owned by Mr. Servage.

Police spokesmen said there were no marks on the dead man to indicate he had been struck by anything but the car.

Canada's little cities are keeping pace with the big ones and even surpassing their rate of growth in many cases.

first commercial oil discovery in B.C. last year in the Boundary Lake area. Pacific Petroleum made the first oil strike at Fort St. John in November, 1951, but operations were later suspended.

Pacific Petroleum announced an oil discovery early this year at Fort St. John No. 45, and later while drilling for gas at the No. 9 well they discovered oil. No. 9 has been undergoing re-testing ever since.

"An oil well may turn into a gas well or a gas well into an oil well," the Pacific Petroleum spokesman said, "but oil is always our first consideration."

He stated that Pacific Petroleum has spent more than $30,000,000 on drilling for gas and oil in the Peace River area so far.

Next year drilling in north-eastern B.C. and northwest Alberta will be the biggest in history with 165 geophysical crews representing all major companies operating in this area.

"There is scarcely a major company in the world that is not now working up there," the spokesman said.

PROTEST HELD UP

Fort St. John No. 9 well was one of those mentioned a few weeks ago by Peter A. Schwerdt, former prospector and independent oil operator, when he challenged the B.C. Social Credit government to prove that it had not "mismanaged" the gas and oil development of the Peace River.

He offered to donate $100,000 to charity if the government and Pacific Petroleum could prove that all oil companies and oil operators had access to "sufficient information" on the lands underlying parcel 64; and all information on the adjacent lands, including PRA Fort St. John No. 1, Pacific Fort St. John Nos. 7, 8, 9, and 32 to enable them to assess for oil and to bid intelligently for the oil in parcel 64.

"We are not interested in entering into any arguments of this nature," the spokesman for Pacific Petroleum said today. "Everyone had an opportunity to bid on this land when it was first offered."

ing example. Rate of growth there in the last five years has been 121 per cent.

The figures were obtained today by The Canadian Press from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics following compilation of figures taken last spring in the first five-year census in Canada's history.

Saskatoon increased its population by 33 per cent in the five years up to last June 1. Drummondville, Que., had a population gain of 84.2 per cent, Regina 24.5 per cent, and Fredericton 12.6 per cent.

NOT COMPLETE

Today's report was only a partial list of Canada's communities. The final tabulation is expected to show the country's population at or near the 16,000,000 mark, compared with 14,000,000 at the 1951 census.

Today's findings showed that while the big cities might add their tens of thousands of people, some of the smaller centres proportionately were doing as well or even better.

Poznan Sergt. Admits He Gave Arms to Rioters

POZNAN, Poland (Reuters) — A Polish police sergeant testified today that when armed rioters in last June's bread riots here stormed into his police post he and his men turned over their arms to them.

Sgt. Tadeusz Krasny, 30, said about 40 youths raided the post during the street fighting of June 28 in which 54 persons died. He said the raiders demanded guns and ammunition. "Because I had no way to protect myself I took out my revolver and put it on the table," he said. "Other policemen did the same."

The judge announced that the court has agreed to a defence request to call extra witnesses. The state meanwhile has appealed against the leniency of the sentences passed on three youths for slaying a security police officer during the riots. Two were sentenced to 4½ years' imprisonment and a third to four years. Another court will pronounce judgment Friday on eight more youths and a 35-year-old man.

Britain Drops First A-Bomb From Aircraft

By TERENCE DOWNEY

MARALAINA, Australia (Reuters) — A British jet bomber today swooped over this desert atomic testing ground and released Britain's first operation atomic bomb.

It exploded in the air with tons of TNT only seconds after the plane had screamed up and away.

A gigantic white-hot fireball sent a searing flash across the sunny desert, and then the familiar mushroom cloud soared into the air, though with its stem less pronounced than those produced at the two previous tests in the recent British series here.

The first of the tests in the series was from a steel tower, and the second at ground level. Today's was the first British attempt to drop a free weapon and explode it in the air.

The plane used was a Vickers' Valiant, one of Britain's newest four-jet long-distance planes.

Explosives Ship Sinks Near Alaska With Four Aboard

KODIAK, Alaska (AP) — The motor vessel Tuva, en route to Kodiak from Seattle, sank Wednesday in heavy seas 30 miles east of Cape St. Elias.

The fate of the four men aboard was unknown. The Tuva, carrying 30 tons of explosives, was believed to have been swamped by high winds which ranged from 40 to 60 miles an hour during the day.

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Electric light and power were restored at 3 a.m. today after a blackout in a large section of southern Westchester County which lasted up to eight hours. Hundreds of thousands of residents were without electricity for varying periods after a short circuit crippled two giant transformers in the Consolidated Edison Co.'s substation here at 7 p.m.

Widow, Four Children Die in Blazing Home

STRATFORD, Conn. (AP) — Mrs. Florence Talbot, a 60-year-old widow, and four of her children perished early today when fire swept their six-room home.

The mother, 4 daughter and two sons were only 15 feet from the front door when they were felled by dense smoke. Another son was found in an upstairs bedroom, a short distance from the window.

The teacher, Miss Paolo del Caratore, paved the way for the police invasion when she flew suddenly at one of the madmen, ripped his knife away from him and stabbed him in the head.

This distracted the other's attention from the children hostages and police made their break then.

One group of police scaled a ladder to a first-floor window. Zennaro, who had climbed an adjoining ladder to distract attention, was shot as he vaulted into the school hall.

FURNITURE FOR THE BRIDE AND GROOM

Thanksgiving

NEXT week, for the first time in my life, I'm going to be a canvasser for the Community Chest.

I'm not sure yet which streets I'll have to canvass. But I'm quite sure of the reasons why I undertook to do this job.

I'm doing it as a sort of personal thanksgiving. Because I've had all the lucky breaks in life—good parents, good education, happy childhood, normal intelligence and better-than-average health.

And, somewhere along the line, it was firmly drilled into me that we are, our brothers' keepers, and that the fortunate have a definite duty to the less fortunate members of society.

These are some of the personal reasons why I feel very strongly about the Community Chest.

Actually, I prefer the simpler setup of a village where neighbors can look after the poor, the crippled, the blind, the old and the people who've gone astray.

I prefer it because of the personal touch and because it seems more natural to do these things in a neighborly kind of way.

But village methods aren't practical or possible in the more complex setting of a larger city. (This more impersonal giving through special agencies is simply part of the price we pay for size and progress.)

Moreover, I haven't the training or the time to do the specialized work that's done by the organizations which are helped by the Community Chest.

As I see it, the least I can do is give money to the Chest, and let the workers in the various agencies do the tasks which, in a simpler age, would have been done directly by the organizations which are helped by the Chest.

And if, as a canvasser, I can help to collect money from other people, too, then I am all for being a canvasser!

And I'm all for a United Appeal like that of the Community Chest. If the 19 Red Feather agencies which are grouped together in the Community Chest were to make separate appeals, the waste of money, time and effort would be ridiculous. I only wish that some of the other independent organizations would join the United Appeal instead of sending their begging letters separately through the mail.

It's sad, perhaps, that charity has become divorced from neighborly care and love, and has developed into a matter of payroll deductions, installment giving and receipts for purposes of income tax exemption.

But this is the 20th century version of charity. And, detached and distant though it may be, the spirit behind it is still the same.

To me, the spirit is expressed in First Corinthians, Chapter 13, and in the Golden Rule which is found in one form or another in nearly all the major religions.

I know men often say that women take things personally. But I can't see what's wrong with having a personal approach to a worthwhile endeavor like the Community Chest!

So, PERSONALLY, I've never had to ask any of these organizations for help. But that's been my good fortune. It's no particular credit to me.

What would happen if my fortune were to change?

What might have happened if I hadn't had all the lucky breaks?

If I were old or blind, or crippled, or in trouble, or chronically ill and unable to nurse myself at home, I'd feel terrible if no one cared enough to spend some time and money helping me.

Wouldn't you feel just the same?

Wouldn't the callous disregard be the final misfortune that was almost too much for you to bear?

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Enlarged Lymph Nodes

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Any person whose lymph nodes in the neck enlarge greatly should know enough to go quickly to a physician to see what is wrong. Oftentimes, when the glands enlarge a little bit, perhaps with an attack of what looks like a siege of influenza, it doesn't mean much. There are many persons whose lymph nodes tend to enlarge whenever they run a fever.

Some young people get glandular fever or infectious mononucleosis. This is an influenza-like disease, which can make the person uncomfortable for six months or more. The disease can be identified by laboratory tests.

In the old days, many young people in tuberculous families got enlarged lymph nodes in the neck, and later these broke down and discharged for years. Today, we seldom see this. Nobody but an old physician knows what a wonderful boon to children certified and pasteurized milks have been. In the old days, when children drank raw milk, they took in large numbers of tubercle bacilli from the often infected cows. As a result, hundreds of thousands got tuberculosis of lymph nodes, joints, bones, bowels and the meninges (coverings of the brain), or the kidneys.

In middle-aged persons great enlargement of the lymph nodes can be due to Hodgkin's disease, which is a cancer-like disease due apparently to a virus. It can be cleared up often with X-ray. I have seen cases in which it disappeared for seven or eight years.

In older persons the physician has to think of cancer which has spread down from the region of the mouth or up from the lungs or the stomach. Often the best thing the physician can do is to remove a gland and examine it under the microscope to see what it is.

BREAST OPERATIONS

Many women keep asking me if they should send for one of the quick remedies that, according to advertisements, will cause a much-desired enlargement of the breasts. My answer is that the Better Business Bureaus tell me that the herb in these medicines is of absolutely no value. It has no effect whatsoever on the breasts. Unfortunately, many women are so unhappy with their small breasts that they will hand their money over to any crook who will promise them results.

A few years ago, some surgeons advocated pushing small breasts forward by stuffing in behind them a certain amount of sponge-like plastic. I doubted very much if this was wise because experiments have shown that almost any plastic, when put in contact with the tissues of the body, will produce cancer. Accordingly, I advised the women who asked me about the operation not to have it. However, many went ahead and were operated on, and recently some have been writing to tell me that they not only failed to get the results they desired, but they got themselves into a mess. Their breasts felt so hard and lumpy and uncomfortable that they had to go to another surgeon and ask him to take the material out again.

Every so often I see a woman with such large breasts that she wishes something could be done to cut down on their weight and to lessen the deformity. Many a time in the past, when I have asked an excellent breast or plastic surgeon if he cared to help such an unhappy woman with her problem, he said that he did not dare attempt it.

He knew the technique of the several operations that have been designed to do what the woman wanted, but, in his experience, the results had so often been unsatisfactory that he did not care to attempt this type of work.

PERSONS TIRED ALL THE TIME

Mrs. Lucile Felin, of Antioch, California, writes that nearly 60 years ago her little sister, aged five, spoke a piece at a church social. This is what she said:

"There was an old woman who always was tired,
She lived in a house where help was not hired,
Her last words on earth were,
'Dear Friends, I am going
Where washing ain't done or cooking or sewing,
And everything there will be exact to my wishes,
For where they don't eat, there's no washing of dishes,
Don't cry for me now, don't cry for me ever,
I'm going to do nothing for ever and ever!'"

I am sure that this will strike a most responsive chord in the hearts of thousands of very tired women!

Over 10 Times Speed of Sound Attained by New U.S. Rocket

LANGLEY FIELD, Va. (UP)

The U.S. Government announced today that it has launched the speediest rocket in history. It reached 6,864 miles an hour—more than 10 times the speed of sound.

With this scientific breakthrough, it said, the United States can plan construction of intercontinental ballistic missiles with a speed of 13,200 miles an hour and "space craft" that will achieve speeds of more than 20,000 miles an hour.

FAMOUS CHEWING LAXATIVE

The fantastic speeds were disclosed by the national advisory committee for aeronautics, the government's top aviation research agency, during a semi-public inspection of its $100,000,000 laboratories. Government and industry officials were present.

200 MILES UP

The record speed of 6,864 miles an hour was reached by a four-stage rocket in a soaring flight over the Atlantic Ocean. Officials said several of the 35-foot 8-inch rockets went as high as 200 miles, within 30 miles of the altitude record for rockets.

NACA officials indicated that some rockets may have gone even faster than the publicly disclosed record. They said the immediate goal of the research is to develop "airplanes" speedy enough to shrink the globe until any two points will be within a comfortable day's journey. The research apparently is connected with the planned X-15 rocket plane which will be capable of flying at speeds of more than 4,000 miles an hour and at altitudes of more than 38 miles. It may be ready to fly in about two years.

NACA officials did not mention the X-15. But they said manned aircraft able to fly faster than 3,300 miles an hour—or more than five times the speed of sound—"appear within the realm of relatively early attainment."

The other immediate goal is the development of a ballistic missile that could span oceans in minutes without being destroyed by heat generated by friction. Surface heat on such missiles would rise to 20,000 degrees, far hotter than the sun's surface temperature.

Officials said the Sept. 27 crash of the X-2 rocket plane in California "inevitably will slow that rate of full-scale flight research" needed for development of the X-15. Before the crash the X-2 reached record speeds and heights of 1,900 miles an hour and 126,000 feet.

Skeleton Found in Algonquin Thought That of Famed Artist

TORONTO (CP)—An amateur artist who investigated an old rumor says a skeleton dug up in an unmarked Algonquin Park grave may be that of Tom Thomson, one of Canada's foremost painters, who died 39 years ago.

Official records say Thomson was buried near Owen Sound, Ont., where he spent his early childhood. However, other reports say the body was moved from its Algonquin Park burial place.

William Little, superintendent of the Ontario reformatory at nearby Brampton, said Tuesday night he and three other men found the bones 10 days ago in a wilderness grave on a hill overlooking picturesque Canoe Lake. There was a hole in the skull.

The 39-year-old painter was officially reported to have been drowned in the lake in 1917 and buried on a hilltop. The body later was ordered moved to Leith, near Owen Sound.

But Mr. Little said he had been told 25 years ago by a forest ranger that Thomson's body was never transferred from its original grave beside a big birch tree.

"There are people who say Thomson met with foul play," Mr. Little said. "We are not sure yet whether they are Thomson's remains. The attorney-general's department is checking."

Mr. Little commented that ranger Mark Robinson, who investigated the painter's death, said the body was not moved to the church cemetery at Leith; that the undertaker hired to transfer the body took an empty coffin to the new grave.

MAY ANSWER RIDDLE

The Globe and Mail says in a copyright story that the find may "answer the riddle" of Thomson's death. It adds: "The death of Thomson... has been a mystery of the Canadian art world for nearly four decades."

Thomson's fame as an artist is widespread despite the fact he had been painting seriously for only three years before he died. Among his best-known paintings are The Jack Pine, The West Wind, The Northern River and Bateau. Much of his work was done in Algonquin Park, the terrain he loved the most.

LOCAL COURSE FIRST IN CANADA

United Church Leaders Watching
Victoria's Christian Leader Plan

United Churches across Canada are watching the progress of the nation's first Christian leadership courses underway here.

Close to 150 persons have registered for the "Training Course for Christian Service," said Rev. Douglas Pilkey, chairman of the Victoria Committee for Christian Education of the United Church.

If the courses are successful here, other United Churches may imitate them, he said.

Four courses, each of eight lectures, are being offered at First United and Metropolitan United churches.

"Theology and Doctrine," is the title of a course held the first Wednesday of each month at 7.30 p.m. in First United Church. Lecturer is Rev. A. I. Higgins.

A course on "Teaching Techniques, Methods and Material" given by Mr. Pilkey and teacher education professors under Neil Swainson, Victoria College, will be held at 8.30 the same night.

"History of the Christian Church," given by Rev. Laura

Butler, begins at Metropolitan United Church Monday at 7.30 p.m., followed at 8.30 by a course on "Advanced Teaching Methods," by Prof. A. W. Johns of Victoria College.

These two courses will continue at the same times on the first Monday of every month.

"The growing need for improved adult education for Christian living and service has given rise to an evangelistic move in our church," said Rev. Pilkey. "These courses are offered as a contribution to meet this need."

Giant Search Scours Ocean

LAKENHEATH, Eng. (AP)—Hours of searching by an armada of planes over the Atlantic failed today to turn up a hint of what happened to a U.S. military transport plane which vanished during the night with 59 men aboard. At one time before night fell, 27 search planes, including big jet bombers, were in the air carrying out the search. Ships below-doubled their watches, but there was not a clue.

Tunnel Workers Dicker Started To End Tie-Up

Negotiations are reported underway today between contractors and the striking Tunnel and Rockworkers Union that would end a lengthy strike on major construction projects in British Columbia. While pickets are still on at the Upper Campbell and Ladore hydro projects of the B.C. Power Commission, 535 of the 776 union men on the jobs, not members of the rockworkers' union, are back at work today after passing the pickets.

At Ladore, 260 of the 285-man complement are back on the job. The newly-formed independent union tied up about 2,000 workers in B.C. during the four-week strike.

Projects affected by the strike include the $20,000,000 hydro development on Upper Campbell River; an $8,000,000 hydro development at Cheakamus, and the $2,640,000 project to remove Ripple Rock from Seymour Narrows.

The rockworkers walked out after a split with the bod carriers over contracts signed by International Hod Carrier representatives for B.C. workers.

GRAVE RAIDER JAILED FOR 2 YEARS

NO MORE MUSIC

Fire which seared and scarred the interior of William Demers' modest home at 480 South Joffre, Wednesday forenoon, left 14-year-old daughter Judy's piano a block of charcoal whose keys will never tinkle again. Most of the other furnishings and interior of the ground floor—all insured—were a total loss. Fire broke out while Mrs. Demers talked to a neighbor. (Times photo.)

District Count Up 18 Per Cent

(See also Page 21)
Greater Victoria has had an 18 per cent rise in population since 1951.

Metropolitan area population now stands at 123,033 compared to 104,303 five years ago, according to Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures released at Ottawa today.

The census division, reporting on the Canada-wide nose-count conducted last spring, said Victoria city has 1,757 more people than in 1951, indicating the fastest increase in growth belongs to the other municipalities in the area. New city population is 53,088.

No breakdown of populations was given yet for Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt. It is thought the overall total would also include part of the adjoining provincial unorganized area.

Recently preliminary census figures gave Victoria 52,935, Saanich about 38,500 and Oak Bay 14,652. Other tentative figures were not available.

The 1951 census gave Victoria

Nelson Sentenced; Mother in Tears

(Special to the Times)

ALBERNI—William Harold Nelson, 18, one of four youths charged with causing an indignity to a dead human body, today was sentenced to two years less one day definite and two years less one day indeterminate.

He will serve his term in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla Prison Farm in Burnaby.

Two of his companions, Alma Doreen Lochner, 19, and David Windsor Ferguson, 19, are scheduled to appear in police court at Alberni Friday to face similar charges.

The third, Jean Gibson, 17-year-old waitress, was remanded Wednesday to appear in police court Oct. 18. She has been transferred from juvenile court to open court.

Pale and wearing a pink sweater, grey pants and suede shoes, Nelson pleaded guilty to the charge.

He received his sentence with apparent emotion. His parents were seated in the front row of the courtroom, close to the box. His mother wept quietly as the sentence was pronounced.

W. H. Nelson

'Just Prank to Attract Attention'

Earlier in the trial Ron MacIsaac, Nanaima lawyer, asked Magistrate Thomas Patterson for leniency in the sentence.

"This is not so much a crime as a prank," he said. "This kind of thing goes on among university students all the time and people call it the boisterousness of youth."

"This act was the act of a mind troubled with alcohol. It was just a prank to attract attention. All human beings at some time or another have to feel important to themselves and that is what this young boy was trying to do."

He maintained that the same case six months from now would be treated as a "prank of youth."

"Terrible punishment has already been visited upon this young man. He did something to attract attention and the prank backfired."

"He is now a leper in this community and any sentence will just be aftermath."

The dramatic incident, which took place in Greenwood Cemetery on the night of Sunday, Sept. 23, was outlined by Port Alberni lawyer Bob Ohs, appearing for the Crown.

"An argument started between the boys and the two girls sitting with them in a parked car at Greenwood Cemetery over Elvis Presley," he said.

"Liquor may have instilled them with bravado but they were sober enough to eat food, participate in physical exercise and drive a car."

GOOD GRIEF! PEANUTS HAS MOVED TO PAGE 21

Few comics in recent years have so quickly won favor as the Times' "Peanuts."

Admiration for Charlie Brown, Linus, Lucy and the dog Snoopy has swept across North America, captivating the hearts of young and old alike.

Accordingly, the Times is setting up Charlie Brown and his philosophical pals in a brand new home, all their own—on the front page of the second section. Watch for "Peanuts" in his new location every day! He's on Page 21 today.

Border Battle Ends

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israeli forces wiped out another Jordan border police station, the fourth in a month, in a seven-hour artillery and hand-to-hand battle that ended early today. Official accounts from both sides said 41 were killed and 25 were wounded.

Kicked Unconscious

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Eric Ericson, 55, was kicked unconscious Wednesday night and left on the floor of his burning shack. Three men were later arrested. Police said they will be charged in connection with the attack today.

Retest Reveals B.C. Gas Well To Be One of Top Oil Yields

The retesting of a three-year-old gas development well in the Fort St. John area by Pacific Petroleum Ltd. and associates ended with the discovery of one of British Columbia's best oil producers.

The well, Fort St. John No. 9, is B.C.'s fifth commercial oil producer from the Triassic zone. The find is making about 250 barrels a day flowing through a quarter-inch choke from 11 feet of sand 22.2.

Another well, Pacific Fort St. John No. 45, was reported making 35 to 45 barrels a day of 42.5 degree gravity oil from a 14-foot dolomite bed. Interest in this well is split 23 per cent each to Pacific, Peace River Natural Gas and Sunray Oil Corporation, 25 per cent to Permo Gas and Oil and six per cent to Canadian Atlantic.

Fort St. John Nos. 9 and 45 belong to Pacific Petroleum. Three others in the Boundary Lake area, 35 miles north and east of Fort St. John, are owned by Northern Foothills Agreement, a syndicate consisting of Shell, Texaco, Mobil Oil and British American. Northern Foothills made the first commercial oil discovery in B.C. last year in the Boundary Lake area. Pacific Petroleum made the first oil strike at Fort St. John in November, 1951, but operations were later suspended.

Pacific Petroleum announced an oil discovery early this year at Fort St. John No. 45, and later while drilling for gas at the No. 9 well they discovered oil. No. 9 has been undergoing re-testing ever since.

"An oil well may turn into a gas well or a gas well into an oil well," the Pacific Petroleum spokesman said, "but oil is always our first consideration."

He stated that Pacific Petroleum has spent more than $30,000,000 on drilling for gas and oil in the Peace River area so far.

Next year drilling in north-eastern B.C. and northwest-Alberta will be the biggest in history with 165 geophysical crews representing all major companies operating in this area.

"There is scarcely a major company in the world that is not now working up there," the spokesman said.

PROTEST HELD UP

Fort St. John No. 9 well was one of those mentioned a few weeks ago by Peter A. Schwerdt, former prospector and independent oil operator, when he challenged the B.C. Social Credit government to prove that it had not "mismanaged" the gas and oil development of the Peace River.

He offered to donate $100,000 to charity if the government and Pacific Petroleum could prove that all oil companies and oil operators had access to "sufficient information" on the lands underlying parcel 64; and all information on the adjacent lands, including PRA Fort St. John No. 1, Pacific Fort St. John Nos. 7, 8, 9, and 32 to enable them to assess for oil and to bid intelligently for the oil in parcel 64. "We are not interested in entering into any arguments of this nature," the spokesman for Pacific Petroleum said today. "Everyone had an opportunity to bid on this land when it was first offered."

ing example. Rate of growth there in the last five years has been 121 per cent.

The figures were obtained today by The Canadian Press from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics following compilation of figures taken last spring in the first five-year census in Canada's history.

Saskatoon increased its population by 33 per cent in the five years up to last June 1. Drummondville, Que., had a population gain of 84.2 per cent. Regina 24.5 per cent, and Fredericton 12.6 per cent.

NOT COMPLETE

Today's report was only a partial list of Canada's communities. The final tabulation is expected to show the country's population at or near the 16,000,000 mark, compared with 14,000,000 at the 1951 census.

Today's findings showed that while the big cities might add their tens of thousands of people, some of the smaller centres proportionately were doing as well or even better.

Poznan Sgt. Admits He Gave Arms to Rioters

POZNAN, Poland (Reuters)

A Polish police sergeant testified today that when armed rioters in last June's bread riots here stormed into his police post he and his men turned over their arms to them.

Sgt. Tadeusz Krasny, 30, said about 40 youths raided the post during the street fighting of June 28 in which 54 persons died. He said the raiders demanded guns and ammunition.

"Because I had no way to protect myself I took out my revolver and put it on the table," he said. "Other policemen did the same."

The judge announced that the court has agreed to a defence request to call extra witnesses. The state meanwhile has appealed against the leniency of the sentences passed on three youths for slaying a security police officer during the riots. Two were sentenced to 4½ years' imprisonment and a third to four years.

Another court will pronounce judgment Friday on eight more youths and a 35-year-old man.

Britain Drops First A-Bomb From Aircraft

By TERENCE DOWNEY

MARALAINA, Australia (Reuters) — A British jet bomber today swooped over this desert atomic testing ground and released Britain's first operation atomic bomb.

It exploded in the air with tons of TNT only seconds after the plane had screamed up and away.

A gigantic white-hot fireball sent a searing flash across the sunny desert, and then the familiar mushroom cloud soared into the air, though with its stem less pronounced than those produced at the two previous tests in the recent British series here.

The first of the tests in the series was from a steel tower, and the second at ground level. Today's was the first British attempt to drop a free weapon and explode it in the air. The plane used was a Vickers Valiant, one of Britain's newest four-jet long-distance planes.

Explosives Ship Sinks Near Alaska With Four Aboard

KODIAK, Alaska (AP)

The motor vessel Tuva, en route to Kodiak from Seattle, sank Wednesday in heavy seas 30 miles east of Cape St. Elias.

The fate of the four men aboard was unknown.

The Tuva, carrying 30 tons of explosives, was believed to have been swamped by high winds whipped up by winds which ranged from 40 to 60 miles an hour during the day.

Britons Bombed On Cyprus Road

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)

Two British soldiers were wounded early today when an electrically detonated bomb exploded in a tree as their army jeep passed beneath on a main road one mile from Paphos. A tracker dog was killed by the explosion.

The judge announced that the court has agreed to a defence request to call extra witnesses. The state meanwhile has appealed against the leniency of the sentences passed on three youths for slaying a security police officer during the riots. Two were sentenced to 4½ years' imprisonment and a third to four years.

Another court will pronounce judgment Friday on eight more youths and a 35-year-old man.

TERRAZZANO, Italy (Reuters)

A woman teacher, who wrestled with one of two mad gunmen before police burst into a school to free 96 children held as hostages, was hailed today as the heroine of the tense barricading episode.

For six nightmare hours Wednesday, the men held everyone at bay, trussing up teachers and shouting threats to blind the children with acid and "blow the place to bits with explosives" unless given a sum of 200,000,000 lire (about $380,000).

Two armed policemen finally broke in, climbed to the top floor and challenged the gunmen, Arturo Sampato, and his brother, Osvaldo, 22.

FIRE ON POLICE

The police were answered by a burst of fire.

Both brothers were wounded in the struggle and were taken to a hospital. A 23-year-old workman, Sante Zennaro, who knew the school layout and was guiding the police, was shot to death during the storming of the building.

The teacher, Miss Paolo del Caratore, paved the way for the police invasion when she flew suddenly at one of the madmen, ripped his knife away from him and stabbed him in the head.

This distracted the other's attention from the children hostages and police made their break then.

One group of police scaled a ladder to a first-floor window. Zennaro, who had climbed an adjoining ladder to distract attention, was shot as he vaulted into the school hall.

POLICEMAN INJURED

A policeman, Alfredo Ceppitelli, burst in behind him, and with the aid of the teacher overpowered Arturo, who was shot once in the head and once in the neck.

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)

Electric light and power were restored at 3 a.m. today after a blackout in a large section of southern Westchester County which lasted up to eight hours. Hundreds of thousands of residents were without electricity for varying periods after a short circuit crippled two giant transformers in the Consolidated Edison Co.'s substation here at 7 p.m.

Widow, Four Children Die in Blazing Home

STRATFORD, Conn. (AP)

Mrs. Florence Talbot, a 60-year-old widow, and four of her children perished early today when fire swept their six-room home. The mother, a daughter and two sons were only 15 feet from the front door when they were felled by dense smoke. Another son was found in an upstairs bedroom, a short distance from the window.

LOCAL COURSE FIRST IN CANADA

Victoria's Christian Leader Plan

United Churches across Canada are watching the progress of the nation's first Christian leadership courses underway here.

Close to 150 persons have registered for the "Training Course for Christian Service," said Rev. Douglas Pilkey, chairman of the Victoria Committee for Christian Education of the United Church.

If the courses are successful here, other United Churches may imitate them, he said.

Four courses, each of eight lectures, are being offered at First United and Metropolitan United churches.

"Theology and Doctrine," is the title of a course held the first Wednesday of each month at 7.30 p.m. in First United Church. Lecturer is Rev. A. I. Higgins.

A course on "Teaching Techniques, Methods and Material" given by Mr. Pilkey and teacher education professors under Neil Swainson, Victoria College, will be held at 8.30 the same night.

"History of the Christian Church," given by Rev. Laura

Butler, begins at Metropolitan United Church Monday at 7.30 p.m., followed at 8.30 by a course on "Advanced Teaching Methods," by Prof. A. W. Johns of Victoria College.

These two courses will continue at the same times on the first Monday of every month.

"The growing need for improved adult education for Christian living and service has given rise to an evangelistic move in our church," said Rev. Pilkey. "These courses are offered as a contribution to meet this need."
